GIRL LURE'S BLACKMAIL CONFESSION

ODDS NOW 5 TO 4 IN FAVOR OF PAPYRUS

International Newsreel Photo.

NEW ENGLAND VS. OLD ENGLAND

All New England is rooting for the American champion "Zev" or Admiral Grayson's colt, "My Own," to win from Old England's champion "Papyrus" tomorrow. The reason—well, Earl Sande is to ride either Zev or My Own, and Mrs. Earl Sande, formerly Miss Marion E. Casey of Boston, has rushed to Long Island to give her husband some pointers and encouragement on how to guide his mount to victory. And at top is shown Papyrus, with Steve Donoghue up in final workout at Belmont park.

2,000 COAL MINERS STRIKE BECAUSE BOY ISN'T REHIRED

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 19.—Three thousand anthracite miners were on strike today in the Pittston district of the Pennsylvania Coal Company.

Number Six collieries, employing 2,000 workers, were idle over the refusal of a foreman to re-hire a driver boy.

At the Barnum Mine 200 quit when a laborer, not on the waiting list was hired.

At the Central Mine at Avoca, 800 continued idle over the refusal of a boss fireman to join the union.

AUTOSTROP GIVES SHAVE WITHOUT SCRAPING FACE

"The Autostrop razor that you sold me for 36 cents is the only razor that I have ever used that does not leave me with a sore face. For years I have had to skip shaving every now and then in order to give my face a rest. I have not had to do it since I started using the Autostrop."

6 MONTHS FOR PERJURY IN BAIL CASE

Harry Polshook of No. 33 Millmont street, Dorchester, was sentenced by Judge Bishop in the Superior Criminal Court to six months in the House of Correction for perjury in connection with the giving of a bail bond.

Several months ago Albert T. Clark was indicted in fifty-three counts of obtaining a considerable sum of money from persons in Boston by promising them positions in a chain system of grocery stores.

Clark pleaded not guilty and was ordered to furnish bail in the sum of $15,000. The bond was furnished by Polshook, Pearl Shirley and William Doksir, and since that day Clark has been a fugitive.

AQUITANIA LURCHES; 14 PASSENGERS HURT

New York, Oct. 19.—A violent eastern gale hit the Aquitania as she was passing Nantucket last night causing the vessel to lurch sharply, upsetting saloon passengers gathered in the lounge and causing injuries to fourteen, officers declared on arrival of the liner today.

Allen G. Archer of Los Angeles sustained a fracture of the left thigh and was taken to the ship's hospital. G. O. Case of London and George Gray, an assistant purser, sustained severe cuts and bruises.

Sir Joseph Duveen, art expert, was seated with Lady Duveen in the main lounge, playing bridge with friends when the first shock was felt. They, with other passengers were thrown on the floor.

"It seemed like a tremendous undulation," said Sir Joseph. "It came suddenly and then we found ourselves on the floor, mixed up with the rugs and the legs of upset chairs. Lady Duveen suffered such a shock that I got her as quickly as possible to our stateroom, where she was treated by the doctor."

CORCORAN JURY HEARS BLACKMAIL CONFESSION

Theresa Duggan's blackmail confession was read to a jury in Judge Quinn's court this afternoon.

Only such parts of it as detailed her own actions were used.

Parts of it that might describe the roles played by William J. Corcoran and others were withheld.

During the reading by Special Assistant District Attorney Arthur D. Hill Theresa sat calmly beside "Big Bill" Corcoran and listened intently. She occupied a seat at the rear of the courtroom.

Judge Hill allowed Attorney Hill to read the confession only after hours of argument between the ten defense lawyrs and the three attorneys for the prosecution.

He stated that he would admit the parts of the confession which dealt only with Theresa, but would reserve his decision on the rest of the statement.

AS CASE GOES ALONG.

He added that if evidence is brought to prove that a conspiracy was on foot at the time Theresa excised a woman's privilege and talked for the benefit of the State

TUG WILSON GANG'S 'FENCE' FREED FROM STATE PRISON

The efforts of Somerville police have effected the release of Isaac Tattlebaum, former Somerville tailor, and said to have been the "fence" for the notorious Tug Wilson gang.

Tattlebaum has been paroled by the State Pardon Board after serving but one year of a two-year sentence for conspiracy.

He was committed on September 29, 1922, transferred to the State prison camp in Rutland on August 15, this year, and released a few days ago.

Tattlebaum was the Somerville police department's tailor. He was intimate with those high up in the department and frequently enjoyed motor rides with detectives in department automobiles.

Frank Brooks, chairman of the State Parole Board, said today Tattlebaum had been paroled sooner than are most prisoners and that the efforts of the Somerville police had effected his parole.

DONOVAN 'FRAMEUP' IS BARED

Theresa Duggan's blackmail confession, made to former Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, was read to the jury today. It told of her having lived at No. 183 River street, Cambridge, and later of moving to No. 1706 Commonwealth avenue, Brookline.

She said she was born in Canada and was married to Francis Duggan, one of the defendants, in 1915. They since have been divorced. They separated in 1917.

"From then on, you haven't lived together as man and wife?" she was asked.

"Oh yes, off and on at intervals," she answered.

Then Harry E. Levenson's name was brought into the case. He is a former lawyer and is accused jointly with Corcoran of being one of the leaders of the alleged blackmail ring.

KNEW HIM 8 YEARS.

Q.—Do you know an attorney in Boston named Harry Levenson? A.—Yes. I have known him about eight or nine years.

Q.—When did you first meet him in a business way? A.—In 1919, about the last of June, I should say.

ZEV STRANGELY ILL; MY OWN MAY RACE

Belmont Park, Oct. 19. — The Jockey Club committee inspected Zev in a half-mile workout today. The colt stepped the half-mile in 47 2-5s., the first furlong in 12 1-4, the quarter in 23 3-5 and three-eighths in 34 2-5. August Belmont announced it will not be decided whether My Own or Zev will race Papyrus until My Own arrives this afternoon.

New York, Oct. 19.—Out of a maze of rumors about the starters in tomorrow's international horse race there stands out today the one fact that Admiral Grayson's horse, My Own, is travelling by special train from Washington to Belmont Park.

The crack three-year-old is prepared if called upon to take Zev's place in the race with Papyrus.

Though no official information was available, it was assumed that Earl Sande, Zev's jockey, would ride My Own in event the latter is chosen to race Papyrus. Sande has had the leg up on both American three-year-old stars in all of their important victories this season.

It is impossible at this time to state with authority anything beyond the facts that My Own has left

GRAPE GROWERS REAP FORTUNES IN 'DRY' NATION

New Orleans, La., Oct. 19 (C.N.S.).—"We were told that prohibition ruined California's gigantic grape industry," smiled J. C. Brister, vice-president in charge of traffic of the New York Central lines, who was today inspecting the company's properties and agents in New Orleans.

"I'd like to be ruined the way the California grape growers have been ruined. In one day recently we handled 900 carloads of California grapes."

"Juicy grapes," he added, "and now we're building a large number of refrigerator cars to handle that wine-grape traffic. The New York Central lines are spending $54,000,000 for new equipment, getting ready for the rush in railroad business that's in sight. And we're moving freight and carrying passengers better and faster, despite the demands upon us are growing by leaps and bounds.

"America's railroads are sweating blood today—and I know what the New York Central lines are doing—to give the swift, efficient service for which the nation is crying."

Attleboro Cop's 90th Birthday

Attleboro, Oct. 19.—George Ide of South Main street, Hebronville district, sixty-eight years a member of the police force, observed his ninetieth birthday. Police and fire officials and other friends brought greetings and gifts. His fond hope is to round out seventy-five years as a member of the police department.

BERLIN MOVES TO PLACATE SAXONY

Berlin, Oct. 19 (I.N.S.).—The Berlin government today recalled General Von Lossow, commander of the Reichswehr in Bavaria, who has been unable to assert state authority over Dr. Von Kahr, the Bavarian Premier and dictator, although Federal authority was vested in General Von Lossow.

Berlin, Oct. 19.—It was reported here today that the dispute between the Federal government and the government of Saxony will be solved by the former displacing General Von Mueller, commander of the Reichswehr in Saxony, whose mode of procedure is said to have been too harsh.

This action, the reports add, will be accompanied by a rebuke to the Saxon government for its interference in the politics of the republic.

A furore was caused in the Saxon Diet when Premier Zeigner asserted that, unknown to Berlin, an authorized army existed in the Reich. Illegal organizations, he declared, were in training at Konigsbrueck and Neuse during the past Summer, while hundreds of thousands of men trained in these bodies had been admitted to the Reichswehr.

The Prussian state police, the premier said, had frustrated an uprising of several of these units near Berlin.

The diplomatic break between Bavaria and Saxony, Saxony's defiance of the Berlin government and the general economic situation, all lead to the belief that Chancellor Stresemann soon will invoke the dictatorial powers recently vested in him by parliament.

DRAFT EVADER WHO HID 5 YEARS SEIZED

Fort Snelling, Minn., Oct. 19.—Frank Schweighofer, thirty-three, of Stratford, Wis., was brought to Fort Snelling on a charge of draft evasion and probabl ywill face a court-martial within three weeks, officers at the post said.

Schweighofer disappeared in 1918 after his name had been drawn for military duty and was discovered three weeks ago when his mother died.

Woman and a Water Drop
Forked Tail Monkey
Double Bootleg Profits
Counting Ford Chickens
Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company.

COUNTY CLERK NIENDORF of Michigan issues, with each marriage license, "Ten rules to insure happy married life." Here is a sample:

"Keep up the courtship period. Go 50-50 on the money and 50-50 on the love. Don't live with relatives or keep boarders. Don't be a tightwad."

SUCH RULES mean little. Every man knows that one drop of salt water, patiently studied, will tell you all about the Pacific Ocean, which is simply a collection of so many drops.

Marriage would last longer if men realized that each woman is to all men what a drop of salt is to the ocean. Study, analyze, interest yourself in the woman that the Lord has assigned to you. One is enough, and has within her, if you will look for it, everything that you would find in ten thousand.

SCIENTISTS are going to Kweichow, mysterious, remote region of China, to hunt for a monkey with a forked tail. This isn't a joke, but a serious enterprise.

An old Chinese writer alleges that the natives know when it is going to rain, because rhinopithecus brelichi thrusts the forks of its tail into his nostrils before a storm.

This monkey is so nervous and excitable that it sometimes knocks its brains out, dashing against the trees. If captured, it ought to find a place in modern European diplomacy.

A REALLY good business includes many profits for many people. The bootleg business is excellent, if you like business of that kind. It yields profits to those that practice bootlegging, and to others hired to prevent bootlegging.

For instance, a prohibition agent dies and they find in his safe deposit box thirty $1,000 bills and thirty thousand more in other loose cash.

The government won't find it easy to fight a traffic that enriches not only the traffickers, but those hired to prevent it.

DEMOCRATS, counting chickens even before the eggs are laid, say that Ford, running independently, will take so many farmers from the Republican party as to make Democratic victory certain.

DEMOCRATS forget that Ford's chief plank will tell of the wonderful things to be done for the South, at Muscle Shoals.

Ford would draw farmers from the Republican party, but he might also break up the Solid South, elect himself, and leave Messrs. Coolidge and McAdoo wondering what happened.

COTTON PRICES are strong. October cotton passed 30 on Wednesday; December went above 29 yesterday. Manufacturers would do well to buy their raw supplies now. Cotton will be higher. A good thing for the South, and the North as well.

NEW KINDS of trouble in Germany, where you can now buy one thousand billion marks for $1,000. In other words, for $1 you can buy more German money, at its face value, than all there was in the world before the war began.

Russia, expecting a German uprising that would call in Bolshevism, calls extra men into the army.

Something definite must happen before long. In any case, the mark can't go much lower.

A BERLIN newspaper wants to jail Stinnes, richest man in Germany, and confiscate all his wealth. That's probably a foolish suggestion. Stinnes' brain, if Germany knew how to use it, would be worth more than all his money.

SIT UP AND TAKE NOTICE WHEN ALLEN APPEARS

Down in Georgia one time they had a colored citizen who bragged about his toughness. Said he was so tough they called him "Bad Bill." Along came a hefty gentleman of the same hue, who happened to be very, very, very tough. He collared "Bad Bill" one day and told him that from where he came from they'd call him "Sweet William."

One stepping into the Corcoran trial in Superior Criminal Court immediately casts his eyes about the room and looks for Bill Corcoran, former Middlesex district attorney, who is charged with so many despicable things in connection with Boston's famous "Blackmail Ring" that one immediately expects to see "Bad Bill" i nall his badness. Insetad one sees "Sweet William."

He sits unworried, unperturbed, on a bench in a comfortable slouch. He is hefty and gray. One leg crosses the other. One arm twines arong the back of the bench. His hands are pudgy and soft. His face inclined to be bloated with double chin.

SIGNS OF STRENGTH

His hair is parted at the side and has a bang. It is thick and plentiful, probably denoting physical strength. That is Bill Corcoran.

He wears a brown suit and four-in-hand tie black and brown striped with a trace of red.

Leaving court at recess he steps into the corridor and lights a perfecto, which he puffs contentedly as satelites crowd about and listen to the man who was once a chief. He talks in jerky, growling, staccato-like sentences, as though he meant what he said.

He is a man who plants his heels firmly on the ground. Once he stepped on his toes, jumping bail in Boston and fleeing to Mexico. For a man who fled so far to escape the trial he now sits in as the principal figure he looks quite unworried.

While Bil lCorcoran is the centre of this trial with its charges of shakedowns through women lures, conspiracy and extortion, the chief attraction is not himself.

IN "VAMPIRE ROW"

All eyes find a resting place on a bench at the side of the hall facing the three big windows in the courtroom, with its cheap oak finish. Reporters have dubbed it "Vampire Row." It might b ecalled "Soubrette Row."

On it sit four women and two men so enmeshed in this case they will sooner or later step to the witness stand. They include:

Mrs. Lillian Hardy Reese, with Teresa Duggan, who "walked out" on the government just when it thought she would give startling testimony against the famous ring. Lillian is supposed to have lured James L. Donovan, wealthy leather man into an apartment so that the ring "shook him down" for $15,500.

What kind of a lady is Lillian?

She has a double chin when she sits, rather fat, she'd call it "plump"; dresses in black because that augments the milk-color of her flesh which she tints a bit in the manner women like Lillian do.

Lillian is not pretty. Her black silk cape and dress are discounted by buff-colored silk hose. Her diamond flash in the pitiless light from the windows which flood "Soubrette Row" as keenly as the Kleigh Lights of the movies. She has some kind of a chain about her neck—green-gold. What constitutes a lure, one wonders as he catalogues Lillian.

WELL, ASK DONOVAN

Ask Donovan. Donovan, the leather man. He sits with a woman between him and Lillian. What does he look like? Totally unlike a "ladies' man." He is tall and bulky with thin lips and a close clipped gray mustache which because of its shape gives him a stern look.

He sits looking as though he wished he had tended to his leather business.

In his hands he holds a black derby—some folks call them "iron hats," also a black overcoat, silk lined with the conventional velvet collar.

He tries to follow the bickerings of lawyers, who make speeches probably with thoughts of Webster in their minds only at times to be rudely interrupted by the judge on the bench who sits bored and probably wonders whether Holy Cross has a chance against Harvard or if "Cal" will remember him now that he is President.

Mr. Donovan and Lillian do not speak. They probably are no longer friends.

She is a Mrs. Danforth. Before she married she was the sweetheart of one Max Korn, wealthy Peabody leather man. (How come the ring picked out the leather business?)

She, innocently enough it is said, introduced Max to Theresa Duggan, the lady who, as they say in fight circles, "took a run-out powder" on the government. Theresa did the rest, it is said. Mrs. Danforth is rather attractive, has a fur, black silk gown and wears a diamond.

Korn sits at the end of the row. He is keen looking, smooth of face and has a paunch and pin-striped suit. He looks more like a "ladies' man" than does Donovan. He will go on the stand and say a lot. He looks as though he will welcome the opportunity.

ONE ENJOYS TRIAL

At the other end of the row sits a lady who simply sheds color. She is not unlike a peacock in gray and baby blue finery. The blue is a gorgeous silken gown of a pattern which is first pronounced and then isn't, as it illusively plays tricks with the light.

This is Miss Ada Hall. She is ashen blonde although you can't see much of her hair beneath her bright hat. She has narrow blue eyes. They are mere slits at times. Miss Hall rented an apartment, she will testify, to certain lady members of the ring. That apartment was at 88 Hancock street, Cambridge.

She heard much, did this lady, and looks as though she could tell much.

She is the only person on the row enjoying the trial.

She is in jovial humor as the lawyers bicker and insult each other in the subtle way these gentlemen trained in speech can do. It was at Miss Hall's that J. Warren Kane, one of the deefndants with "Sweet William," is alleged to have worked with Theresa Duggan in the machination of the ring.

Who is the sad-faced girl next to Mrs. Danforth?

That is May Louise Lyons. Nice looking girl. Neatly dressed. Not flashy. She was secretary to Corcoran when he started a drug company and made himself president. She will tell lots, it is whispered. Tell of conversations she heard her boss engage in, they being of ring affair; also tell, it is said, of conspiracies he entered into.

AND HERE'S TERESA

But Teresa Duggan? Where is she. Where is the lady who was to tell so much then suddenly exercising a woman's privilege turned her back upon that sister of hers, with the blind eyes and weighted scales—Justice? Teresa, principal "go-getter" for the ring, they say, is not on the bench. Where is she? We'll tell you:

Right next to Corcoran, Bill himself.

She sits on the end of the bench, Bill just inside of her and as the court proceedings limp along she shows little interest until this reporter starts boldly inventorying her with pencil and a pad. Then she smiles, showing irregular teeth and shaping her mouth mummy-talks to the reporter a "What are you doing"?

Teresa is as little worried as the man next to her. She too, sits back "snug and pretty" as they say in sports circles. She wears a black velvet, jockey style hat, too large for her pale face with its irregular features. She is not pretty and not stylish. Slouched comfortably you would never tabulate Teresa as a "lure."

Her pigeon color silk frock with its lace collar is pretty enough but the neck is too low.

Combined with the bit of rouge on Teresa's cheeks it is discounting to its wearer.

ALLEN TAKES STAND

Attorney General Allen takes the witness stand and both Corcoran and Teresa sit up interested.

They should. Both made confessions to the gentleman with the bent shoulders and the keen, lynx-like face. He talks of one on the stand, but it is not for public consumption, so this reporter can tell you no more.

As to the audience—same as you would find at such a trial. Men with bloated faces, pimply faces, crafty faces. What do they do for a living? How do they spare the time? And how do they get in? For the court corridors are thronged with the curious and the trial is harder to enter than a world series.

All look shabby by contrast with the gilt-fringed American flag on the wall back of the judge's head.

CHARACTERS IN COURT DRAMA CAUGHT IN CHARACTERISTIC POSES

RUM BRIBERS PAID MILLION; 11 ARE HELD

New York, Oct. 19.—The greatest rum conspiracy roundup made since the advent of prohibition came with the arrest of eleven men here by Federal government agents.

Six heads of breweries were among those arrested. Another arrested was Harry Foley, once secretary to Governor Edwards of New Jersey and now New Jersey State commissioner of weights and measures.

Wm. Hayward.

United States Attorney William Hayward said that more than $1,000,000 in cash had been paid by the brewers during the past year to Federal agents.

The arrests appear to have solved the mystery as to the source of the tremendous amount of illegal beer which has deluged New York city and vicinity during the past year.

Most of the arrests were made at the Hotel Pennsylvania, where revenue agents, working under instructions of the internal revenue bureau, had gone to collect [illegible] from the brewers to permit New Jersey beer to come into New York.

Besides Foley, those arrested were, Herbert Katz of the Paterson Brewing and Malting Company, Paterson, N. J.; Edward Butler of the Peter Breidt Brewing Company of Elizabeth, N. J.; Harry Kuller of the Hygeia Brewing Company, Passaic, N. J.; George Seeber of the Rising Sun Brewing Company, Elizabeth, N. J.; Henry Greenfield, a prohibition agent; Samuel Elfenbein, truckman and warehouseman of Manhattan; Herman J. Goldman and Theodore I. Schwartzma of the Herman Chemical Company, Brooklyn; William Nathan of Hoboken, N. J., and Dr. Leo Zakaroff of the alcohol warehouse corporation of New York.

CURLEY ASKS FIN. COM. TO COME IN

Extra—Extra.

Mayor Curley today invited the Finance Commission to visit him on Monday afternoon next at 2 p. m.

When the guardians of the Curley administration heard the news they exclaimed, "What next?"

If the Fin. Com. members appear at City Hall they will have for company the members of the Overseers of the Public Welfare, Charles J. Fox, budget commissioner, and Rupert S. Carven, city auditor.

A conference will be held to consider the report submitted recently by the Fin Com, at the request of the Mayor, of the needs of the overseers' department.

ASKS $75,000 BAIL FOR LOFT GANG; JUDGE REFUSES

The long criminal records of five men captured in a Chauncy street loft Tuesday, when police riot guns wounded two of them, were used today before Judge Laurie in Municipal Court when District Attorney O'Brien asked that their bail be increased from $50,000 to $75,000 each.

The men are Samuel Cohen, alias Wolk; Samuel Miller, alias Marcus; Benjamin Axel, alias Sacks; Frank Wales, alias Botwinick, Klinn, Kramer, Greenberg and Isador Rubin, Boston member of the alleged New York gang of loft workers.

They have their specialties, Mr. O'Brien said, and the master mind of the gang in New York thinks them more valuable "on the street" under bail than in prison.

Judge Laurie decided to continue the hearing until Oct. 24 and to let the bail remain at $50,000 each until then.

Rubin, one of the wounded men, was in court. Wales, the other who received a charge from a police riot gun, was not.

CRUSHED BY ELEVATOR; IS CUT OUT DY FIREMEN

Edward Hirsham, 16 years old, of No. 63 Lynd street, Malden, employed at No. 153 Blackstone street, North End, is at the Haymarket Relief station in a serious condition. He was jammed between an elevator and a wall on the second floor of the building. Firemen of Engine H. and Ladder 1 cut him away.

Edward Gray, 23 years old, of No. 68 Appleton street, South End, employed at No. 42 Franklin street, was struck by the operating handle of the elevator and is at the Relief Station with cuts and abrasions.

HOLE SHOT IN 'BULLET-PROOF' VEST; MANUFACTURER SUED

New York, Oct. 19 (Universal)—Because his "bullet-proof" vest failed to stop a bullet, Pierpont Potter, salesman for the company which makes the vest, filed suit for $20,000.

Potter says that he put on the vest to test it and that a bullet fired at him went through the vest and injured him so badly he had to be operated upon several times. The United States Armor Corporation and the Bullet-Proof Corporation are defendants.

WOMAN BEATEN AND KICKED BY INTRUDER IN HER HOME

Warren, Oct. 19.—A heavy, hairy man beat and kicked Miss Rose Lapoint so severely in her secluded home at West Warren that she was barely able to crawl seventy-five yards to the home of a neighbor to ask for assistance, police learned today.

She returned home at 9:15 o'clock last night from her work. In a bedroom she struck a match to light a gas jet. The intruder cast a blanket over her, but was unable to subdue her. He seized a bottle and struck her over the head, then kicked her and fled.

He was searching for her life savings, the police believe.

19-YEAR-OLD DOPE ADDICT BEGS FOR JAIL AS CURE

Only nineteen, victim of drugs for over a year, John C. Baker, of Wakefield street, Dorchester, today begged in Lynn Court to be confined for a cure. His plea was granted by Judge Reeve. He was sent to the House of Correction for three months for treatment.

Young Baker entered Lynn police headquarters at 1 o'clock this morning pleading to be locked up and given treatment.

"I can't win out alone," he told Judge Reeve, "but the drug habit can be cured with proper treatment."

He explained he was formerly sent to the State farm at Bridgewater, but owing to an error in his commitment papers, he was discharged in a few weeks before a cure was effected.

LYNN WIFE GOES ON RAMPAGE WHEN HUSBAND IS ARRESTED

Max Barr of Lynn put "kick" in his hard cider and called it "popskull," because generally a man's skull popped after drinking it.

But his booze didn't contain half the kick that Mrs. Max Barr exhibited when she learned Max had been arrested by the police of Swampscott, charged with selling liquor.

She went temporarily insane, hurled chairs and other articles about her home at No. 24 Shepherd street. All the windows were smashed and the noise attracted neighbors, who held her until a physician could arrive.

Max had promised her faithfully he'd quit the liquor game and she thought he was running a nice little store at No. 23 Essex street, Swampscott. He wasn't, the police declare.

MRS. DRAPER IS SUED BY SON FOR $150,000

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 19.—George Duncan Draper, son of George Otis Draper, Hopedale, Mass., millionaire, and of Mrs. Lily Draper of Santa Barbara, Cal., formerly of this city, filed suit in the United States Court at Frankfort against his mother to recover $150,000.

The sum is the interest in a trust fund created by his father for him, his brother and his deceased sister in 1901. It now aggregates approximately $300,000.

Young Draper asks that contracts alleged to have been signed on June 21, 1917, and March 31, 1923, purporting to transfer his interest in the trust fund to his mother, be set aside.

When his parents were divorced in 1901, he states, his father set aside 600 shares of stock in the Draper Company of Hopedale, Mass., valued at $60,000, for the three children. When the sister died, the fund went to the two brothers, payable when they became of age.

Draper says he transferred his entire interest in the fund to his mother "for $1 and the love and affection I bore her" without reading the agreement, on the day he was twenty one years old and preparing to go overseas with the United States Army.

When he returned from overseas and married, his mother informed him for the first time of the nature of the document he signed, he said, and declared that she intended to keep the fund under its authority.

WELLESLEY GIRLS ARE DROPPED

Three Are Suspended and a Fourth, Also Rich, Is Placed on Probation

Three Wellesley College girls, all daughters of wealthy and prominent families, were suspended and a fourth was placed on probation as the result of a party in Boston from which they did not return until the next day.

Harvard and Technology students were involved in the affair.

As usual, no punishment whatever has been meted out to the Harvard and Tech boys who were present at the party.

The college authorities learned that the girls were not in their respective dormitories at 9.45 o'clock at night, the hour when all Wellesley students are required to be in their rooms unless absent with special permission and accompanied by chaperones approved by the college.

Further investigation revealed that the girls had forged the names of chaperones on the college register. A member of the student body recalled having seen the four girls approaching a class building from one of the entrances to the grounds in the morning. According to all precedent, girls at that hour should be approaching the class buildings from the direction of dormitories.

Four girls were called up on the carpet before the student governing body. One was a senior, another a junior, the third a sophomore and the fourth a freshman. The upper class girls were prominent in college life. All are the daughters of wealthy parents.

One lives in New York, another in Cleveland, another in Chicago, and another in the far West. At first they hesitated to answer the questions put to them. Then one of the girls broke down and told the story.

They had had "dates" with Harvard and Tech students and they didn't want to be bothered with chaperones. The evening began with a theatre party in Boston, followed by midnight supper in a Boston [illegible].

The evening was still young, so the four girls and their male escorts went automobile riding. When one of the party thought to consult a watch, it was too late to return to the college that night. The girls went to a Boston hotel, and left in the morning in time to attend their first classes.

A check-up on the story proved to be correct. There had been a theatre party with dinner afterward, and then an auto ride. The hotel register told where the girls had spent the night.

Recommendation was made by the student governing body that the three upper classmen be sus-

ALLEN QUIZZED AT CORCORAN TRIAL

ASKED ABOUT 'CONFESSION' OF THERESA DUGGAN

he would admit all the confession. This question is to be decided as the case goes along.

Yesterday Theresa, the brunette "lure" of the alleged blackmailers, ran out on the State and declined to testify. That started a wrangle over the admissability of her confession.

The point was, Did Theresa confess while the alleged blackmailers still were plotting to lure wealthy and bullible men into compromising situations with women, or afterward?

Hill declared the conspiracy was on foot while she was confessing.

Defence lawyers said not.

Judge Quinn will decide later which is right.

The confession was made November 7, 1921, and the indictments were returned more than a month later.

ALLEN IS WITNESS.

Former Attorney-General J. Weston Allen and his former assistant, Albert Hurwitz, active prosecutors of Joseph C. Pelletier and Daniel H. Coakley, were witnesses today for the State.

They were examined by Prosecutor Hill in an attempt to refute statements made by Mrs. Duggan.

J. Weston Allen.

Attorney E. Mark Sullivan, who took Mrs. Duggan to the Attorney-General's office in December, 1921, when she made a second alleged "confession," was also a witness.

State Policeman Frank Hale also testified.

The calling of these men was in connection with Mrs. Duggan's "confessions." The defence is fighting to have the statements excluded.

The witnesses were cross-examined by Attorney William R. Scharton, personal counsel for Mrs. Duggan.

Mrs. Duggan was on the witness stand for two hours. The jury retired while she was questioned.

When she left the stand, she crossed the courtroom and sat down beside "Big Bill" Corcoran. They appeared friendly. They began an animated conversation.

Only yesterday Mrs. Duggan retracted her promise to be the star witness for the State against Corcoran and seven others. She had made a statement concerning the alleged ring.

That statement is the battleground of ten lawyers for the defence and three for the prosecution. They are making every effort to keep it from the jury, while the prosecution is fighting valiantly to get it into the evidence.

Looking more like a country girl than a blackmail "lure," Theresa took the witness stand when court opened and was examined by Special District Attorney Arthur D. Hill for the State. The jury was retired.

CROWD STORMS COURTROOM.

A large crowd stormed the doors of the courtroom a[illegible] today seeking admission. Scores of prominent politicians from all parts of Greater Boston were in the gathering.

In the absence of the jurors Judge Quinn listened to Mrs. Duggan's account of the circumstances under which she claims she made a statement or "confession" to former Assistant Attorney General Albert Hurwitz on November 7, 1921. He also heard her story of a statement she made in the presence of her attorney E. Mark Sullivan, in the attorney general's office, December 23, 1921.

Judge Quinn's task is to determine whether these statements were made voluntarily or under duress or as the result of threats or promises.

W. J. Corcoran. Mrs. Duggan.

DUGGAN GIRL ON STAND.

If Mrs. Duggan's "confessions" are given to the jury they may also be asked to decide whether the "confessions" were voluntary or otherwise. The question was raised when Stenographer William L. Haskell of Northboro started to read the confessions.

Mr. Haskell was interrupted and Mrs. Duggan, attired entirely in black with the exception of a dash of gold trimming in her hat, was called to the witness stand.

She remained there for hours under direct examination of William R. Scharton, her counsel, and cross-examination of Mr. Hill. Because of the absence of the jurors the questions she was asked and her answers cannot be printed at this time.

While she testified, Mrs. Duggan stood with her hands by her side, answering the questions in a calm, low voice, which at times was inaudible to the attorneys. Several times she was requested to raise her voice.

pended, and that the freshman be placed on probation. Which, in college language, means that the three upper classmen may not return to Wellesley until next September, and that the freshman may not leave the college campus until Christmas. The recommendation was confirmed by the college authorities.

The college rules are made by the girls themselves and administered by the student governing body, confirmed in special cases by the faculty. The quartette "took their medicine" without protest. Before sunset there were three vacant rooms in the Wellesley dormitories, and a fourth room was given over to sobs and tears.

ELKS' GRAND LODGE HOLDS UP KLAN BAN

Watertown, S. D., Oct. 19.—Action of the Elks Lodge of Atlantic City in expelling members who are also members of the Ku Klux Klan does not have the approval of the Grand Lodge officers. "I am not now prepared to say what action will be taken ultimately," said Grand Exaltd Ruler McFarland, "because until we know whether the oaths and obligations atken by Klan members are at variance with Elk precepts, no decision will be made."

Dr. Mahoney warns parents that the saving of life depends usually on the promptness with which thet anti-toxin is administered.

The number of diphtheria cases reported to the health department since September 1 are 384 against 247 in 1922. The number of deaths since September 1 are 23 against 14 in 1922.

HAYNES THREATENS BOOZE RING ROUNDUP

Washington, Oct. 19 (I.N.S.).—Charging political leaders with profiting through the "rum graft ring" in New York and New Jersey, Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes this afternoon announced that government agents would begin an immediate round-up of all suspects.

He declared arrests would be made on a "large scale" including men of political prominence.

Wayland, Oct. 19.—Three 100 gallon stills in operation in a shed near the home of Joseph Polite caused a fire today which burned the man's home and narrowly missed trapping him, his wife and three children in the flames. Two sheds, a barn and the residence burned with a loss of about $5,000. Two men are sought as operators of the stills.

Advertising Shortens the Road to Success

Do you doubt that a new hatter could spring up in New York and, with honest hats and brilliant advertising, in five years take its place abreast of the leaders of fifty years? It has been done.

Do you doubt that a new thought could arise in pencils, and, in two years, backed by good advertising, make a place for the pencil on the desks of the nation? That, too, has been done.

Do you doubt that a New York department store, in a bad year, could, largely through the improvement in its advertising, attract 110,000 new customers to its shop? That was done, last year.

A fine old business may consider advertising as a protection for today and insurance for tomorrow but to the young growing business it is a pair of seven league boots, which bring fame, friends and volume, years before their normal advent.

LYNN GIRL IS BRIDE AFTER ELOPEMENT

Walter P. Babb, treasurer of Essex County, was perhaps the most surprised man in that county when he greeted his adopted daughter, Thelma, and her husband, Edwin Matthew of Lahore, India, upon their return from New York City and heard them announce their marriage.

A week ago Babb's daughter told him she was going to visit friends in Newton for about a week. She met Matthew in time to miss the night boat for New York by five minutes. The trip was made by train.

WIRE THOUGHT HOAX.

The couple were married by the Rev. B. C. Warren of the First Methodist Episcopal Church on Eighteenth street, New York. A telegram to the bride's parents announcing the marriage was regarded as a hoax. After a week the couple returned and produced the marriage certificate.

For the next eighteen months, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Whittredge, No. 8 Kent street, Cliftondale. A reception was tendered the young couple at that address the evening following their return home.

TO LIVE IN INDIA.

Matthew, a graduate of the Thompson Engineering College, Semia, India, was sent to America by the British government to do special work in turbines at the Lynn plant of the General Electric Company. At the completion of his course he will return to India with his bride, where he will represent the turbine division of the General Electric Company. His father, George Matthews, is in India in the service of the British government.

Mrs. Matthew was employed in a secretarial capacity by the General Electric Company, and it was there that she met Matthew last Spring, and invited him to her home at No 25 Virginia terrace, Lynn.

Frank E. Conley is chairman of the dance committee. The Misses Agnes Rand, Elizabeth Buckley, Theresa O'Brien, Fannie Richardson and Julia Welsh are aiding in making the affair a success.

RUM RUNNER'S CAR KILLS MAN AND ESCAPES

George R. Newbegin of No. 7 Oak street, Danvers, suffered injuries from which he died when the motorcycle he was riding on Gardner Hill, Danversport, collided with a truck operated, the police allege, by a rum-runner who escaped following the accident without revealing his identity.

G. R. Newbegin

The police declare they have a clue to identity of the truck driver and expect to make an arrest soon. The operator of the truck, they believe, was returning from the Danversport waterfront where rum is loaded from motorboats.

Newbegin was a captain in the Rainbow Division during the World War. He was on his way to work in Salem when the accident occurred. According to a dying statement he made to the police, the truck driver picked him up following the accident, placed him beside his motorcycle and escaped.

The injured man was found several hours later by Paul Mansfield of Riverside street, Danversport, and removed to his home where he died. His widow, Olive S. Newbegin, survives him.

A Thrifty Store for Thrifty Men

Thrift is equally distant from parsimony and extravagance and has nothing in common with either. It is simply the judicious management of one's finances, and as such should be the constant practice of every man. But thrift has many enemies, the greatest of which is generally conceded to be the charge account.

This Live Store, offering no charge-account temptations to extravagance and having no charge-account expenses or losses to add to its prices, enables a man to practice real thrift in his clothes buying.

Our ten-store, spot-cash buying, our low overhead expense and our elimination of charge accounts, enable us to offer a saving of $5 to $15 on the highest grade of clothing the market affords. Comparison proves this.

KLAN CEREMONY IS INTERRUPTED BY GUN BATTLE

Buffalo, Oct. 19 (I.N.S.).—A pitched battle between 1,500 Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and initiates and an attacking party of approximately 150 in which shots from revolvers and sawed-off shot-guns were exchanged, was the dramatic climax to a ceremonial of the Klan staged two miles each of Cambria Center, Niagara County, just off the Saunders Settlement road to Lockport.

The encounter, which lasted close to five minutes, signalled the first armed clash between klansmen and forces of opposition to the K. K. K. to occur in Western New York.

The fight was witnessed by a reporter who had been invited to witness the ceremonial.

So far as could be learned, only one person was injured. He was a member of the Klan forces. More than 100 shots fired on both sides.

That no one was killed may be attributed to the fact that Klansmen directed virtually all of their shots toward the sky.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 19.—Developments in the situation here in connection with the Ku Klux Klan and the mayoralty campaign today included a statement by J. J. McNichols, acting chief of police, that if necessary his men will be ordered to "shoot to kill" to stop a proposed Klan parade here.

McNichols said he would not grant a permit for the Klan parade scheduled here for November 10, that policemen would be ordered to disperse such a parade, by peaceful means if possible, and if persuasion failed, would be told to shoot to kill.

First Man May Have Been A Woman, Scientist Says

New York, Oct. 19.—The first man may have been a woman.

This was the opinion expressed today by Professor J. Howard McGregor, research associate in human anatomy of the American Museum of Natural History who recently returned from Europe where he studied the fossil remains of pithecan thropuserectus, as the scientists call it, or the "man ape." The specimen was discovered at Trinil, Java in 1891-92 by Professor Eugene Dubois of the University of Amsterdam. Professor McGregor said the idea that the "man ape" may have been a "woman ape," is based on measurements of the left thigh bone. Instead of being straight up and down like a man's it has an obliquity of form similar to a woman's.

FIND OLD MSS. BY SHAKESPEARE

London, Oct. 19.—"A Shakespeare discovery of the first magnitude" is announced by the Daily Express on authority of Vernon H. Rendalls, former editor of the Athenaeum.

It says that for 100 years there has lain in the British Museum 147 lines of manuscript constituting an addition to a play written by Anthony Munday, the Elizabethan writer, on the life of Sir Thomas More. Published about the year 1593, the play was corrected by several hands.

It has now been established, according to the statement that the handwriting is actually that of Shakespeare and identical with six signatures hitherto treasured as the only existing specimens of the poet's caligraphy.

The Express asserts the manuscript is the most valuable in the world, adding: It can never be bought by the Americans unless they buy the British Museum.

BROKER HELD AS SWINDLER OF INVALID

Accused of having swindled an aged Arlington woman, wife of an invalid, out of stocks valued at $4,920, Louis Lowenberg, forty-two years old, of No. 20 Buckminster street, Back Bay, was arrested at his home and turned over to the Arlington police.

The victim of the alleged stock swindle is Mrs. Amelia F. Brockway, seventy-five years old, of No. 71 Appleton street, Arlington. The stolen stocks were American Telephone shares and constituted the entire possessions of the woman and her invalid husband, she said.

According to Mrs. Brockway, Lowenburg came to her home, representing himself to be a licensed stock salesman, and induced her to give him the stock, consisting of forty shares. In exchange he promised to give her shares of stock in the Van Camp Milk Co., which he said, were valued at $60 a share and, within two weeks would increase in value to $90 a share.

The woman said she turned over all her stock to the bogus salesman. He promised to return the next day with the Van Camp stock, she said. She never saw him again, however, she said, until he was brought before her by the police for identification. Lowenburg, the police, say, has sold the stolen stock. He was released on $3,000 bail and will appear in the East Cambridge District Court.

N. J. Skerrett Dead

Worcester, Oct. 19.—Nicholas J. Skerrett, veteran newspaperman, city editor of the Gazette, former captain of field artillery in the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia and junior vice-commander of the Worcester Camp of Spanish War Veterans, is dead here at the age of forty-six.

Legion's 'Beauty'

HELEN A. MURRAY.

Miss Helen A. Murray of No. 134 Boston street, Dorchester, commander of Bessie P. Edward Post 261, the only all-woman post in the Massachusetts Department of the American Legion, has been acclaimed the prettiest yeomaid in attendance at the National convention of the Legion in San Francisco. Miss Murray served in the Charlestown Navy Yard during the World War.

LEGION BALKS AT NAMING KLAN 'UNAMERICAN'

San Francisco, Oct. 19.—The Ku Klux Klan issue threw the fifth annual convention of the American Legion into tumult. Bay State delegation took a prominent part in the debate.

Following a fight in which sectional belief and religious convictions were aired on the convention floor the Legion delgates adopted the report of its resolutions committee, denouncing the Invisible Empire without naming it as such.

The scrap over whether the name of Klan should be specifically mentioned precipitated the most bitter fight ever experienced at a Legion convention.

OKLAHOMA BEATEN.

C. W. Kendrick of California led the more radical anti-Klan forces, who asked that the Legion declare the Ku Klux Klan as "opposed to the principles on which this nation was founded." His resolution was lost by a vote of 815 to 142, with thirty-six delegates not voting. Massachusetts, Connecticut and Iowa departments supported Kendrick.

A counter-proposal by Delegate Whiney of Oklahoma, demanding a "hands off" policy was overwhelmingly defeated.

Delegate Quigley of Massachusetts denounced the Oklahoma resolution.

"It is only for the protection of members of the American Legion," he said. "We want to legislate for the good of the country and not the American Legion.

"I am a Catholic from Massachusetts, but I am first of all an American."

Delegate Good of Massachusetts, a member of the resolutions committee that recommended the anti-Klan resolution finally adopted, said the question was not a religious one, but an American one.

OPPOSE WORLD COURT

Charging that church affiliations of William Deegan of New York had prevented Deegan's election to the nation commandership at New Orleans last year, Kendrick made a stirring plea for "religious liberty."

Refusal of the American Legion to accept the plea of the United States Chamber of Commerce for approval of the Hughes-Hoover World Court, was another important action brought forth by the committee.

French occupation of the Ruhr was approved.

LAUDS VETS' BUREAU.

The United States Veterans' Bureau was given a clean bill of health by the convention rehabilitation committee, which also asked that government hospitals be opened free to all sick and wounded veterans. The report was adopted.

Among the announced candidates for national commander are: John R. Quinn, past commander of the department of California; General James A. Drain of Washington; Captain Chiles P. Plummer, an attorney of Casper, Wyo.; John B. Healy, a "buck private," candidate from Pennsylvania; William S. Deegan of New York; Colonel John R. McQuigg of Ohio, one of the organizers of the legion, a past State commander and a member of national committees, and General Wilder S. Metcalf of Kansas, who is said to have the backing of the Missouri Valley, Gen. Clarence R. Edwards has been mentioned as a dark horse candidate.

St. Paul, Minn., was selected for the convention next year.

COURT ADMITS DYING STATEMENT

Capt. Tappan

While dying at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Joseph Veto pointed to Anthony M. Gaeta and said: "He is the man who shot me," Captain W. E. Tappan of the Revere police department testified before a jury in the Third Session of the Superior Criminal Court before Judge Dubuque. Gaeta is on trial for first degree murder in having fatally shot Veto following a quarrel over an orange. The dying statement was admitted as evidence against Gaeta, after Capt. Tappan had satisfied the court that the preliminary steps required by law had first been taken.

KITCHEN CHAIR HIS WIFE'S FIGHT WEAPON

Kitchen chairs, broom handles and pepper were some of the weapons used by thirty-five-year-old Mabel Cole on her seventy-year-old husband, according to the testimony of the husband, Fred H. Cole, before Chief Justice Hall in Suffolk Divorce Court.

"Oh, she was a disagreeable woman to get along with," said Cole. Judge Hall held up the case awaiting a corroborating witness.

BRITISH DOCTORS TO GO ON STRIKE

London, Oct. 19.—A strike of several hundred British physicians on January 1, next, has been decided upon. The strikers are members of the "Panel Doctors Union" which serves 15,000,000 men and women contributors to the National Health Fund. The decision to strike was taken at a conclave of the doctors in London as an act of refusal to accept a reduction in fees.

SHOOTING VICTIM FEARS TO RETURN TO RESIDENCE

Monterey, Oct. 19.—Julius D. Miner, local general storekeeper, postmaster and town treasurer, will not return to this village until the authorities have arrested the person who shot him as he was entering his yard a short time ago.

Great Barrington police have in their possession a shotgun, stolen from another Monterey house, which the assailant of Miner is believed to have used.

Miner has left the Great Barrington Hospital, fully recovered from his wound, and is visiting friends in that village. Later he plans to make a trip to Oregon, where his partner and twin brother, Lester, is visiting at present.

The Selectmen have offered $200 reward for the apprehension of Miner's assailant.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 19.—Irene Castle is going to live with her family in New York she says, after she completes her tour of the United States in a fashion and dancing review. In discussing her plans she was asked about her divorce from Captain Robert E. Treman. "If you don't mind, I haven't a thing to say about it," she said.

PRETTY ROOMER TWIN BEDS; DIVORCE

If you have twin beds, don't let a pretty roomer come into the bed chamber to be kissed goodbye when she is going to work. Especially don't do this if wifie is supposed to be asleep in the other twin bed.

Wifie may be playing 'possum.

Mrs. Ethel Gertrude Wisch of Roxbury testified in Suffolk Probate Court today that it was this way in her case. She told the court she saw her husband, Frederick Wisch kiss Miss Alice Clace, their lodger.

"He thought I was asleep, but I wasn't," explained the matron of thirty, seeking divorce on grounds of non-support and cruelty.

Judge Joseph McCoole of Norfolk Probate Court, on the bench today, granted her a decree and right to resume her maiden name of Smith.

The suit was uncontested. Mrs. Wisch testified that she did not know where her husband is now.

They were married thirteen years and while they lived at No. 117 Warren street, Roxbury, they took Miss Clace for a lodger, she said. Everything went well for a time but about two years ago she claimed Wisch and the fair lodger got a habit of taking rides in his car and attending theatres together.

She remonstrated and accused. They admitted being familiar, she testified. Then came the bedroom kiss and the well-known camel's back gave way.

PICKPOCKETS ROB MAN IN THEATRE

While leaving a South End theatre William Sterling of No. 46 St. James street, Roxbury, reported to the police that two men jostled against him in the crowd, snatched a purse from his pocket and fled. The purse contained $6 and some valuable papers, Sterling said. One of the pickpockets was described as a tall man of light complexion and with red hair.

FINDS NEW WAY TO KEEP FRUIT FRESH

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 19.—Discovery of a new process by which fruit can be kept fresh for an indefinite period is announced by the College of Agriculture of the University of California. The fruit is put up in a cold syrup of 20 grams of sugar to 80 grams of water, and sealed by a process in tin cans which preserves the fruit in its natural state, according to Professor A. W. Christie, credited with devising the method.

Sues Hotel Man

DOROTHY DALTON.

New York, Oct. 19.—Dorothy Dalton, dimpled, two-fisted, two-gun, bronco-busting gal of movie fame, wasn't a bit hard-boiled when she tripped into Supreme Court in an attempt to collect $6,600 from the Hotel Hamilton.

Three years ago, she charges in her suit, she checked five trunks and a packing case at the hotel, and subsequently discovered that one trunk and the packing case, containing lingerie, $1,000 wraps and other apparel, had disappeared.

RECORD CAMEL HERD LANDS IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 19.—The largest herd of camels ever landed in the United States is at the government quarantine station at Athenia, N. J., having been taken there by Ellis S. Joseph, who, according to Dr. W. T. Hornaday, is the greatest living collector of animals.

The herd consists of 58 Australian camels. The collector drove them 800 miles by road from a wild region of Central Australia, shipped them 480 miles by railroad and then more than 10,000 miles on the steamship Easterner to New York.

He unloaded also 97 kangarooos, three lions, 12 Tasmanian devils, a leopard, a tiger, 12 wombats and a variety of birds and snakes.

The collection is to be divided among thirty United States zoos.

BIG VICTORY FOR THE GOVERNORS WHO ARE 'DRY'

West Baden, Ind., Oct. 19 (I.N.S.).—Sweeping over the so-called Wet faction, the Drys won a smashing victory at the concluding session of the annual Governors' Conference today.

Following a stormy session behind closed doors, virtually all of the State executives agreed to sign the resolution circulated by Governor Sweet of Colorado, pledging full support of the conference to President Coolidge in the fight to uphold the prohibition law and make the United States thoroughly dry.

The triumph of the Drys, however, was secured only after bitter assaults upon the resolution by Governors Parker of Louisiana and Blaine of Wisconsin. Through the efforts of these two State chiefs Governor Sweet was forced to eliminate that portion of the resolution which declared that the conference "approved the Eighteenth Amendment."

As the resolution stands it is restricted solely to an expression that the Governors are ready to throw complete and harmonious co-operation of their State agencies "to maintain the integrity of the constitution and the laws of the land," particularly prohibition, narcotic and immigration laws which are to be the basis of discussion at the White House conference tomorrow afternoon.

Blaine attacked the resolution as he said: "I have already taken an oath as Governor of Wisconsin to uphold the constitution and I resent any move to make me take that oath again."

Odds Still 2 to 1 Against Papyrus in London

London, Oct. 19.—The British book makers are still betting two to one against Papyrus for Saturday's race at Belmont Park despite reports from New York that the odds have shrunk to even money. There is little wagering on the race among the London followers of the sport, and the bookmakers mention their odds for this event merely in a footnote to the usual advertisements.

2 WEEKS JOB TO CLEAR TOMB OF KING TUT

Luxor, Egypt, Oct. 19 (AP)—Preparations for lifting the 2,000 tons of earth, stone and wooden joists that now rest over the tomb of Tutankhamen are proceeding apace.

Howard Carter and his American associates, Messrs. Candler and Burton, have re-established themselves in their lonely concrete domiciles at the entrance to the Valley of Kings, and have made a preliminary survey of the work that must be done before the inner tomb believed to contain the mummy of the pharaoh can be opened.

The archaeologists estimate that at least a fortnight will be required to clear away the vast heap of rubble that now shields the king from the outside world. It is possible that a narrow gauge railway loaned by the American Archaeological Mission will be used to hasten the work.

Nearly 100 of the native excavators who helped Mr. Carter uncover the tomb last Summer have been reengaged at stipends which make American union wages look like fortunes.

MRS. STOKES TO READ HER PERSONAL DIARY TO THE JURY

TRUE STORY OF HER LIFE SINCE 1911

Mrs. Stokes exhibited her diary today. It covers the entire period of her married life, beginning in 1911 when as a girl she eloped with the aged millionaire to a New Jersey Gretna Green.

WITHOUT PARALLEL

The diary will be read to the jury by Mrs. Stokes when she takes the witness stand in her own behalf late next week, the third week of the trial, according to Samuel Untermyer, chief of the defence counsel.

Handwriting experts will be called to prove the document authentic and to swear that the entries made in 1911 and following years, are not recent writings, a contention which already has been involved by her husband.

The written record, as shown by Mrs. Stokes, is perhaps a document without parallel in court records. It tells a story of the young and beautiful girl who marries a man of wealth and age. Its first entries are the story of expected happiness, with constant reference to the husband in terms of endearment.

BOTH SIDES ACCUSED

Charge and counter-charge flew thick and fast today. Max D. Steuer, chief counsel for Stokes, charged:

1.—Burglary of the homes of Stokes witnesses.

2.—Papers, record, statements and affidavits have been stolen.

3.—Threats have intimidated witnesses, driven them out of town and cause them to change their stories.

Samuel D. Untermyer, of Mrs. Stokes' defense replied with charges that:

1.—Affidavits of Stokes witnesses have been forged and altered.

2.—Statements from witnesses have been secured by trickerly and fraud.

3.—Perjury, evasion and bribery have filled the case.

Steur charged that the home of Ezerian Epps, a negro witness for Stokes, employed by him as a witness getter had been entered and papers stolen. He also charged that Mrs. Williams of Bethel, Ct., had been intimidated into denying what Steuer alleges to be facts in the case.

Untermyer answered by presneting a sworn statement signed by Mrs. Williams.

TRICKERY CHARGED

An affidavit charging Stokes with trickery in obtaining evidence against his wife, was introduced today by Isadore Schapiro, of counsel for Mrs. Stokes, into the record of the re-trial.

The affidavit was made by Mrs. Charles Williams, of Bethel, Ct., in repudiation of another affidavit made by her and read into the record by Max Steuer, chief counsel for Mr. Stokes, charging that Mrs. Williams had seen Mrs. Stokes in company with Edgar T. Wallace, chief co-respondent, at the Summer home of W. L. Pepperman, near Mrs. Williams' home at Bethel.

Both affidavits, it was stated, were the basis of the trial at Bethel before a jury on charges of perjury brought by Stokes of Mrs. Williams.

She was acquitted of the charge of having perjured herself in making a second affidavit repudiating a first in which she had identified Mr. Wallace and Mrs. Stokes as the persons she had seen together at Bethel.

TWO AFFIDAVITS

The first affidavit, introduced into the record today by Mr. Steuer was made July 17, 1922. It declared that Mrs. Williams had seen a woman answering the description of Mrs. Stokes in company with Wallace at the Pepperman home. It described as "hilarious" the conduct of Wallace, Mrs. Stokes, who had been introduced as Mrs. Helen Gwynne, Pepperman and a woman, Miss Daisy Hay.

The second affidavit, read by Mr. Schapiro, said Mrs. Williams met Mr. Stokes July 16, 1922. She was visiting in Danbury, Ct., when a Miss Edmonds came to visit her there, drove her to New York in a motor car and took her to Mr. Stokes' office.

There, Mrs. Williams said, she talked with Mr. Stokes while a stenographer took down her remarks. Pressed for time to get a train home, she said, she signed what was alleged to be a transcript of her remarks on Mr. Stokes' assurance that she would have a chance to correct any possible inaccuracies.

DIDN'T KNOW WALLACE

"I charge," she said, in her repudiating affidavit, "that Mr. Stokes tricked me into signing it (the first affidavit). All I said was that the photographs of Mrs. Stokes shown me resembled the woman I saw at Bethal. I did not identify Mr. Wallace because I did not know him."

Mrs. Williams characterized other statements in the first document as absolutely false. She asserted that twice allegedly corrected copies of her remarks to Mr. Stokes had been sent to her for her signature, but she had considered them inaccurate and had refused to sign them.

Edgar T. Wallace, mining engineer of San Francisco, principal alleged co-respondent in the retrial divorce hearing, is in New York, and will be in court Monday as a witness for Mrs. Stokes.

Wallace, following his arrival, conferred with Charles Erbstein, Chicago attorney, on Mrs. Stokes' legal staff. Erbstein later declared that Wallace is prepared to make a complete denial that he ever entertained Mrs. Stokes in his apartment on East Thirty-fifth street.

ERBSTEIN BACK

Samuel Untermyer.

Erbstein is back in the court room and denies he threatened to withdraw from the case. That rumor followed his abrupt leaving of the court room on Wednesday, when he became indignant because Samuel Untermyer, New York counsel for Mrs. Stokes, persisted in offering suggestions while Erbstein was cross-examining a witness.

Mrs. Stokes' counsel continues hammering steadily at the testimony of the aged millionaire's group of witnesses, collected almost exclusively from the ranks of servants, chiefly negroes.

Azariah Epps, negro messenger boy for Interborough officials in 1914-15, found his memory decidedly ailing on almost every circumstance of those years, with the exception of two occasions when he carried letters "addressed to Miss Helen (he paused) Miss Helen—Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes."

MAGIC REFRESHMENT

He added as though by sudden magic refreshment:

"The first was addressed to No. 13 East Thirty-eighth street."

Untermyer coaxed:

"And the second?"

"It just had Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes and didn't have no address, but I was told to take it to the Ansonia Hotel and I took it to the sixteenth floor."

Q.—And again Mrs. Stokes was at the door to receive it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was there anything peculiar about these letters that cause you to remember them? A.—No, sir, not as I recollect.

Max D. Steuer, trial counsel for Stokes, had brought out that Epps had worked for the I. R. T. as a messenger in the president's office at the same time (1914-15) that W. Leon Pepperman, one of the officials, had an apartment with Edgar T. Wallace at Twenty-ninth street and Fifth avenue; that he was a brother of Martha Jones, Pepperman's cook. Later his sister was Wallace's cook in the apartment at No. 13 East Thirty-fifth street that, it is said, Mrs. Stokes visited.

CONTRADICTS SELF

Epps was unable to recall who sent the letters. Once he heatedly denied an affidavit, already identified by himself and stating that he had been informed of Martha Jones' testimony and that it was absolutely false.

But on taking the sheets in his own hands and glimpsing the signature with his own eyes, he answered Untermyer's demand, "Was it true?" with a meek "Yes, sir." Further cross-examination of Epps revealed that in the Summer of last year he was advance agent and photograph carrier for Stokes, when the latter rode to Bethel, Ct., in his automobile and showed the assembled town folk photographs of Mrs. Stokes.

Mrs. Stokes.

W. E. D. Stokes.

The display was followed by a canvass of the persons who previously had told Epps, whom they knew to be a millionaire's emissary, that there was something familiar about the pictures.

The people approached in Bethel by Epps were mostly colored persons in poor circumstances who, lured by the messenger's flowery promises of a trip to the big city with all expenses paid by the wealthy hotel owner, signified willingness to sign their names to a paper.

PERJURY COMPLAINT

Just how many of those documents, which were really affidavits connecting Mrs. Stokes with Wallace and others, in minute descriptions of indecent parties, were signed and sworn to in Stokes' private office, Epps could not state, but testified too ne by Mrs. Eleanor E. Williams which was afterward repudiated.

Thereupon Stokes made a complaint of perjury against Mrs. Williams, a white woman, but the county authorities threw out the charge.

An affidavit filed by Mrs. Williams, describing Stokes' method of obtaining testimony, reads, in part:

"On July 16, 1922, I was about to leave my home in Bethel, Ct., for a visit to my sister-in-law, when Stokes and Epps drove up in an automobile.

"Stokes introduced himself and stated that he had a business matter he wanted to discuss with me, and asked me to go to New York to look at a photograph. Stokes offered to pay all expenses and after consulting with my husband, I finally consented to go.

"We went to Stokes' office. He showed me a photograph, which I said resembled a lady I knew as Mrs. Wynn.

STOKES INSINUATED

"He questioned me and insinuated many things.

"Later he brought an affidavit to me. It was getting late. I was anxious to catch the last train for Bethel, and I had not time to read it. Stokes urged me to sign it, promising to send me a copy.

"When a week later I received a copy I was amazed at the statements it contained. I discovered that Stokes had tricked me into signing a false and untrue affidavit.

"Among the lies put in by Stokes was about a drunken orgy at the country home of Mr. Pepperman in Bethel. There was a false statement about Mr. Pepperman going into a room with the woman on the picture he asked me to identify, said to be Mrs. Stokes, whom I have never seen in my life."

ST. LOUIS GOES WILD OVER LLOYD GEORGE

St. Louis, Oct. 19.—David Lloyd George and his party arrived here at 8.58 a. m. He was given a rousing reception.

The first regiment, Missouri National Guard, stood at present arms. A military band played American and Welsh airs.

The visitors were taken on an automobile ride through the decorated streets of St. Louis. Crowds lind the route and sent up rousing cheers. At the hotel where the British statesman addressed a luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce, police had difficulty in keepnig the crowd back.

NEW!

English broadcloth overblouses in gray and bisque, $3

An accomplishment—similar in value to the moire velvet trimmed blouses that sold out so quickly last week. These blouses of crepe de chine have matching panels (both front and back) and gauntlet cuffs of vella-vella, that much admired first cousin to velvet. Brown, navy and black, in all sizes from 36 to 46. But owing to the big demand we anticipate, we will be unable to fill mail and telephone orders on these particular blouses, $7.50.

Other silk overblouses similarly styled up to $32.50

"Practical!" exclaimed the women when they first saw blouses of the soft broadcloth-like cotton that had hitherto belonged in the province of men's shirtings. Then not content, they demanded they be made even more practical—of gray or bisque. So we bought the cloth in these colors and had them made up to order—saving many pennies in the process. Two styles, gray, bisque, white, and white piped with the colors, $3.

Other English broadcloth blouses, $2.50 to $8.75

Valiant Skipper in Frail Boat Battles Sea and Gale to Save Men on Schooner

A thrilling rescue of a man, ill in yesterday's gale, which had swept his ship into the Northeast Graves within sight of the Graves Light, is an epic of the coast and it is being told over and over again today among shipping men.

Cap'n King—King of the Pioneer. He's the hero.

The pioneer is just a little launch, but Cap'n King rode it into the teeth of the Nor'easter while the tug Juno, towering over it, couldn't stand the buffeting of the seas and put back into port before reaching the little two-masted Damariscotta, Me., schooner, Rebecca G. Whilden, filled with lumber and bound for Lynn.

Half a dozen men in the Pioneer were bailing, bailing, bailing every minute of the hours that it required for them to reach the Rebecca. Seas broke over the little ship, waves tossed it into the air and dropped it deep into the wallows, but the Pioneer out-rode the storm and came through safe, back to Nahant with a man from the Rebecca.

KING SETS OUT.

The skipper, named Sabin, and another man elected to remain on board the Rebecca during the night. Her sails had been ripped to ribbons, her deck gear smashed, and she was held by two anchors that were none too secure. Just ahead was disaster and death, but the skipper wouldn't leave the Rebecca.

Cap'n King is a member of the Stoney Beach Coast Guard station. He happened to be in the office when the Graves light skopper telephoned that the Rebecca had come blustering down before the gale into the Graves and was in danger.

Cap'n King hopped into the little Pioneer and set out. He went back into Nahant during the night and out to the schooner today, after the wind had changed to the westward and shipping was moving again.

HELD IN HARBOR.

The steamers Belfast, from Rockland, and Ransom B. Fuller from Portland, were held at their docks and left this morning. The City of Columbus from Savannah wirelessed that she was hove-to twelve hours out and would arrive here at 6 o'clock tonight.

The steamships Glennridge for Rotterdam, the Steel Inventor for the Far East and the Anthony O'Boyle, which sailed yesterday, put back into the harbor and left today.

The Nantucket from Philadelphia and the Juniata from Baltimore and Norfolk, are expected today. The Nantucket was off Handkerchief Shoals in Nantucket Sound.

FORD ENDORSES PLAN TO DEEPEN HUDSON

Detroit, Oct. 19.—Henry Ford has indorsed the Deeper Hudson project which calls for Federal government dredging of the Hudson river to Albany and Troy, 150 miles above New York.

Ford said he was amazed, after a study of the situation that the Hudson had not been deepened many years ago. Ford has a new plant at Green Island, at the head of tide water on the Hudson, and the terminal of the proposed deep channel.

KILLS HIS RIVAL AS WIFE ENDS LIFE

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 19.—Brooding over the suicide of his wife, on September [illegible], Adam R. Heffner of Pottsville shot and killed John Williams, a neighbor in front of the county prison today and then walked to the prison door, rang the bell and surrendered. The police said Heffner blamed the suicide of his wife on her relations with Williams.

Mrs. Heffner, when accused by her husband, threatened to return to her mother and he immediately hired a truck to take her, their three small children and their belongings to her mother's home. While he was making these arrangements she shot herself through the head while standing on the porch of her home.

Today Heffner met Williams and walked down the street with him. Heffner says they had an altercation and when Williams reached in his back pocket as though to draw a gun he shot him.

Poor Heating in U. S. Houses Blamed for Third of Deaths

Atlantic City, Oct. 19.—One third of all the deaths in the United States are due to respiratory diseases caused by the lowering of vitality on account of improper heating and ventilation during the Winter season, according to representatives of the Smithsonian Institute, addressing the convention of the American Gas Association here.

"The seasonal cycle of pneumonia where house heating is necessary is starting," they said. "Of the total annual deaths, about 40 per cent. occur during the Winter months.

HOLD 4 IN BIG BROCKTON THEFT

Brockton, Oct. 19.—Four truck drivers took 50,000 cigarettes, 2,000 pounds of sugar and 2,000 cigars from the Silas Peirce Company, Ltd., wholesale grocers, and sold them for $3,000, it was charged today when the men appeared in District Court.

George E. Marchant, twenty-four years old, of West Ashland street, admitted his guilt.

Leroy N. Rogers of Donald street, Joseph Des Grosillier of Hunt street and Gardner Parmenter of Gladstone street pleaded not guilty. Parmenter was surrendered on an old complaint charging him with abandoning his family and his bail was put at $1,000 for trial October 29. The others were held in $500 bail each for trial on that date.

PRICES BOOSTED IN FRANCE; POLICE PROBE LIVING COSTS

Paris, Oct. 19.—The cost of living in France is increasing daily. Taking the cost in 17914 as an index statistics for 100 commodities today give the number 331 against 289 for the corresponding period last year, and there seems no reason why this will not reach the previous high water mark of 370 attained at the end of 1919.

The index figure for twenty foodstuffs now stand at 333. Coal, which cost sixty-five francs a ton in 1914, now sells for 270, while shoes have risen from eighteen to seventy-two francs a pair.

CHARGE MURDER AND ARSON AFTER FIRE WHERE SIX DIED

New York, Oct. 19.—Murder and arson indictments were sought before a Brooklyn Grand Jury today against three men who are charged with having set fire to a frame dwelling in which six persons were burned to death last Monday. Keim, a playright, was a victim. A third man was involved by Anderson.

THOUSANDS ASK ADAMS SQ. CARS BE RESTORED

Petitions have been placed with newsboys with surface [illegible] throughout Boston, asking the restoration of North and Southbound surface cars via Adams square, between the hours of 12:35 and 4:30 a. m., removed Sunday morning.

Two thousand signatures were received the first twenty-four hours. More are pouring in hourly.

These petitions will be sent to the Boston Elevated.

Among those chiefly affected are the army of scrubwomen who go to office buildings to [illegible] during those hours and who now have to climb the two flights [illegible] Scollay Under or Park Street [illegible] to the street. Late travelers from Chelsea and Charlestown who were transferring at Adams Square for various parts of Boston [illegible] got lunch at the square. Now they transfer below and are unable to do so.

It is pointed out that many of the scrubwomen affected are from sixty to seventy years of age, facing [illegible] of back breaking labor. Newspaper workers, postal employes, telephone workers and others make up the army of objectors—in fact all night workers.

Many letters of protest are being mailed direct to the Boston Elevated.

5 DEAD WHEN MOLTEN STEEL ESCAPES AND SPILLS ON THEM

Farrell, Pa., Oct. 19.—A crane operator died in his steel cage and four other men were so badly burned that they died in a hospital when a cable slipped and spilled seventy tons of molten steel at the [illegible] plant of the Carnegie Steel Company.

The dead: Clayton Fisher of Sharpsville; [illegible] Hossler of Trouts Corners; R[illegible] Phillips of Wheatland and [illegible] Service of Sharon.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The field on the last day of the National Horse Endurance contest at Avon, narrowed down to ten mounts today after six horses had been disqualified a few minutes before the start. Owners and riders protested to the judges but to no avail.

Brown, [illegible] and Villandar and Gr[illegible] States army; "Jack-Fretz," champion broncho buster and captain of the Texas cowboy contingent riding for the Morgan Club, was one who entered written protest on the disqualifications.

Horse fanciers predicted that Gladstone, owned by the Morgan Farm, would take first prize at the completion of the ride. The animal was second in last year's ride. He appeared in fine shape.

The last sixty miles in the 300-mile endurance run will be over rough country.

ASK U. S. SPEND $250,000,000 FOR AIR CRAFT

Washington, Oct 19.—Adoption of a joint army navy air service development program to be completed in ten years is recommended in the report of a special board of general officers of the army made public today.

Unless measures are taken immediately for the upbuilding of the air service and the airplane industry, the report said the army air service will have been "practically demobilized," and the American aircraft industry virtually disappear within a few years.

The board recommended that the Army Air Service program be framed to provide for expenditure of approximately $250,000,000 during the ten year development period at the rate of $25,000,000 a year. Of that annual sum, the board said, the first few years should see $10,000,000 a year devoted to operating expenses and $15,000,000 to the purchase of new aircraft.

The board was appointed to make a survey of the air service situation and was headed by Major General William Lassiter. It found that an alarming condition existed in the army service due to shortage of flying personnel and equipment and to the failure of the aircraft industry to develop commercially.

The industry, the board said, was solely dependent on government orders, which had been limited due to lack of appropriations and the fact that airplanes manufactured during the war were being used up. The deterioration and loss of these war built planes had not reached a point where the situation is "critical," the board said, and where "there will be available by July, 1926, less than 300 serviceable airplanes to meet a requirement of over five times that number."

THANKSGIVING TURKS SHOULD BE CHEAP

Turkeys are plentiful.

The gobbler crop this year is far above that of last season.

If the law of supply and demand works, and Harry T. Gerrish, authority for our turkey information, has no reason to believe it won't, Thanksgiving turkeys should be had at lower prices than ever. Mr. Gerrish is vice-president of the National Poultry and Egg Association and has just returned from a tour of the country. Turkeys from Texas and the Northwest, he says, have been raised in great numbers and will form the strongest kind of competition for New England-bred birds.

TAN COLOR REPLACES WHITE IN HOSPITALS

New York, Oct. 19.—Tan is crowding out the traditional white as a wall color in hospitals, the Eyesight Conservation Council of America declared in a report today. The change is attributable to modern research in eye conservation, which has established that white is too harsh in its reaction on ill or convalescent persons.

PARIS COURTS CUT TIES OF SOCIETY PAIR

MR. AND MRS. B. SUMNER WELLES

Former Esther Slater of Webster, and her husband whom she has divorced charging him with desertion. Their wedding in 1915 was one of the big society events of the season.

DIVORCE OF HEIRESS STIRS HUB

Society Surprised by Separation of Former Esther Slater and Husband

Paris divorce courts have hung up another separation which burst on Boston society with the shock of a sudden explosion. The divorced persons are Mr. and Mrs. B. Sumner Welles of Boston and Paris.

Their marriage in 1915 was one of the "biggest" affairs [illegible] society ever attended. And [illegible] more. The socially prominent [illegible] laws with the society [illegible], workers in the Slater factory at Webster.

B. Sumner Welles was a tall handsome chap, whose favorite sport was hunting big game. He was a Harvard graduate.

ENTIRE TOWN CELEBRATED.

When he married Esther Slater the entire town of Webster gathered and celebrated. There was a holiday for everybody and Welles took away a bride whom everyone, rich and poor alike, had found a charming girl.

It was on April 14, 1915, that the ceremony was performed. That was a day marked on the calendars of factories and drawing rooms alike. Nothing has been heard in Back Bay society of storms which evidently rocked the Welles matrimonial ship. The divorce was a surprise to even their close friends.

The grounds upon which Mrs. Welles sued her husband are not known, but it is said that she charged him with desertion, and this is as close to the actual facts as anyone has been able to get.

OTHER DIVORCES.

And while the Paris divorce mill works overtime on its food of dissatisfaction, the boulevards are busy with gossip.

Mrs. Preston Gibson

Princess Boncompagni

The bon vivants recall the Preston Gibson divorce. They remember when Prince Boncompagni, one of Rome's most illustrious figures, came to Paris to get a divorce from Margaret Draper, his American wife.

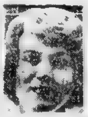
The prince had to go back to the Vatican and ask the Pope for permission to separate himself legally from the pretty young woman.

Then there was the Hollis case—remember how the American wife of former Senator Hollis of New Hampshire started suit to annul a decree of divorce granted to him by the Greek church? [illegible] after the Paris [illegible] to grant him a divorce.

ECHOES IN BACK BAY.

There have been innumerable other [illegible] in Paris, divorces which separated wealthy men and women,

Mrs. L. Thomas



Mrs. F. H Prince

divorces which caused more than a stir in international society, and left echoes ringing in Back Bay.

There was Mrs. Leonard Thomas, now the wife of John Barrymore.

There was Mrs. Frederick H. Prince, Jr., wife of the Boston aviator.

There was a double divorce in Paris after which the principals married each other. That's a confused way of saying that Mrs. Prince married Eugene Van Rensselaer Thayer, bank officer, after her divorce. She is a daughter of W. P. G. Harding of Birmingham, Ala., president of the Federal Reserve Board and now a resident of Boston. She was Elizabeth Harding and had been living in Washington when she met the flyer.

But the funny part of it was that Mr. Thayer got a divorce at exactly the same time that Mrs. Prince was divorced.

He was freed in Paris from Gladys Baldwin Brooks Thayer and short[ly] afterward announced his engagement to Elizabeth Harding Prince. W. P. G. Harding, her father, remarked that he had never met Thayer socially, although he knew him as an official of the Chase National [illegible] in New York.

Second Husband More Cruel Than First, Wife Tells Judge

Mrs. Edythe D. Spracklin of Boston secured a divorce from her first husband some years ago on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. Before Chief Justice Hall in the Suffolk County Divorce Court she declared that her first husband was "not near so cruel as this one."

The "this one" is Thomas W. Spracklin. He also was charged with cruel and abusive treatment. Thomas used an umbrella to beat his wife with, according to Mrs. Margaret Dillaway, mother of Mrs. Spracklin. Mrs. Dillaway sighed long and loud between recitals of the cruel ways of her son-in-law. Judge Hall granted the divorce.

London (AP).—Sir Laming Worthington Evans, Postmaster G[illegible] a speech at Colchester, emphasized the need of a sound currency and denied that the government intended to manufacture artificial money.

PARANOIAC IN WEBB MYSTERY

Person Having Daily Access to Sickroom of Heiress Now Suspected

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The "inside story" of the death of Mrs. Gertie Gorman Webb, woman of $2,000,000, at the Westchester-Biltmore Club September 25, has been learned by the Westchester County Grand Jury.

It is a story out of fiction—a story of a totally unsuspected person, who on the last day of Mrs. Webb's illness injected into her body enough bichloride of mercury to make it appear another had sought to kill her.

Suspicion has definitely crystallized in the direction of a person of known mental instability who was daily admitted to the sick room for days before Mrs. Webb died, a person who was in a position to administer the poison.

"DANGEROUS PARANOIAC."

This person has been characterized by well-known alienists as a "dangerous paranoiac" and has been the subject of previous investigation in other cases where sudden and unexpected deaths occurred.

Charles Webb, husband of the dead woman, went before the Grand Jury [illegible] details of his wife's last sickness.

Without even a gesture of recognition Webb had confronted in the witness room [illegible] William J. Meyer,

Charles Webb

Mrs. Webb

New York and White Plains physician, first to declare Mrs. Webb's death was "suspicious."

Meyer himself was called later and William J. Hunter, uncle of Mrs. Webb and father of the chief [illegible] of the will.

Webb asserted after his appearance before the Grand Jury:

"I was barred out of the sick room on September 20—five days before my wife died. I knew little about Dr. Meyer and Mrs. Robert S. Johnstone, who were in charge of the sick room. But I thought my presence might disturb my wife, so I stayed away. I was in agony.

'COULD HARDLY ARTICULATE'

"It was not until 7:40 o'clock on the evening before my dear wife's death that I was permitted to enter her room. This was the evening of September 24, almost a full twenty-four hours before she died.

"It was evident she was near death. She could hardly articulate. Straining every nerve, she managed to call out my name. Then she lapsed into a coma. Her condition became steadily worse. I [illegible] morning.

"[illegible] Meyer and Mrs. Johnstone assert Mrs. Webb made her deathbed accusation and accounted for the presence of mercurial poison in her [illegible].

NEAR RIOT IN COURT WHEN MA GETS CHILD

MRS. CAROLAN AND SON

MISS SADIE McGOVERN

DAD HELD FOR ASSAULT AFTER 'KIDNAPING'

William Carolan of Dorchester was in Dorchester court today charged with assault and battery on Mrs. Mae O'Brien, a wife and mother. Yesterday in Superior Court, he was forced to return his [illegible]-month-old son William, to his wife, Ethel. The Carolans have [illegible] divorce suits.

Mr. Carolan had left the baby [illegible] O'Brien home at No. 82 Ellington street, Dorchester. Carolan [illegible] but left bruises on Mrs. O'Brien's wrists, she charged.

In her divorce suit Mrs. Carolan charges her husband with cruelty, abuse and gross habits of intoxication and [illegible]. Carolan [illegible] cruel and abusive treatment.

A riotous scene in the Suffolk County courthouse followed the awarding of the baby and $7 a week for its support to the wife and mother. In the midst of the [illegible] caused by friends of both, [illegible] Miss Sadie McGovern [illegible] Carolan had struck her in the mouth when she tried to kiss the baby.

Carolan admitted he moved the furniture from the home at No. 82 Ellington street, leaving his wife and baby without a roof over their heads. Then he filed his divorce suit.

U. S.-CANADIAN PARLEY ON RUM-RUNNING SET

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The Canadian-United States [illegible] conference to stop [illegible] will be held the latter part of November, the Canadian government announced today, as a result of pressure by the news[illegible].

Announcement came after five postponements, laid to wet interests by prohibitionists, while government contended it was awaiting England's action on the tw[illegible] pro-

3 SURGEONS HAVE ALSO RESIGNED

Action Taken to Express Sympathy With Deposed Superintendent

Springfield, Oct. 19.—Fourteen supervisory nurses, the entire supervisory nursing staff of Springfield Hospital, have resigned.

The staff nurses have handed in their [illegible] of sympathy for Miss Caroline M. Powell, for [illegible] superintendent [illegible] who was forced to resign.

MYSTERY IN CASE.

Mystery surrounds the cause of Miss Powell's [illegible] resignation. Miss Powell [illegible] and the trustees are not [illegible]. Three surgeons, Dr. Ralph F. [illegible], Dr. [illegible] and Dr. F. B. Sweet resigned [illegible] also. It is understood the action was out of sympathy for Miss Powell.

A [illegible] of additional resignations of doctors and nurses is threatened unless the trustees reconsider Miss Powell's resignation.

EFFECTIVE DEC. 31.

The head nurses' resignations are effective December 31. They were handed to Henry A. Field, president of the board of trustees.

Following is the list of the nurses who resigned: Doris Roberts, assistant superintendent; Jennie Walker, instructor in theory; Mary E. Johnson, [illegible] instructor; Katharine Hon, [illegible] Gordon, supervisor; Helen Peters, supervisor [illegible] Mrs. Lida [illegible] Stevens, [illegible] head [illegible] Keese, Helen [illegible] and Dorothy Wilas, floor nurses.

WIFE ASKS DIVORCE FROM POLICEMAN

Albert F. Houle

Haverhill, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Blanche Mildred Houle, living at the Mt. Washington House, has brought suit for divorce against her husband Patrolman Albert L. Houle, on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. Houle is living with his married sister on Grove street. The couple separated two months ago.

Mrs. Houle alleges that her husband came home from work one day and gave her a beating too. She picked up most of the family furniture and left him.

$10 GREENBACK LOOKED 'QUEER' TO MANY

Salvatore Lonarti bought socks from Mary Glennon at her counter in Woolworth's Five and Ten-Cent Store in Scollay square.

Salvatore was held in $5,000 bail today by United States Commissioner Hayes on a charge that he shoved the "queer" when he handed Mary a $10 bill, Federal Reserve series of 1914, to pay for his ten-cent socks.

But Mary Glennon looked Salvatore over and inspected his $10 bill, and then she notified the store officials that Salvatore's money couldn't be spent over her counter. It wasn't any good, she said.

When he was arrested Federal agents found $370 in real, regular money in his clothing. This, they charged, was change from other worthless bills, scattered all over New England in the last week or so.

"He is one of the biggest 'shovers of the queer' in the business," Commissioner Hayes was informed.

Angell-Grew Wedding Interests Society

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE Angell-Grew wedding furnishes most of today's social excitement, with a large contingent going out to Dover for the affair.

The bride is Miss Jane Norton Grew, daughter of the Edward Wigglesworth Grews of Boston and Dover, and there are a host of notable connections on both sides of the family, her mother having been Miss Ruth Dexter.

Today's ceremonial—to be solemnized at high noon in St. Andrew's Church, Dover—has more than local interest, as the groom, James Waterhouse Angell, is the son of President Angell of Yale and Mrs. James Rowland Angell. Naturally, there will be quite a number of out-of-town folk to hear the couple's "I does."

Miss Helen Grew is serving as her sister's maid of honor, the bridesmaids group including Miss Ruth Grew, another sister, and the Misses Mary (Polly) Cabot and Rose Parker of Boston and Miss Marion Angell of New Haven.

Mary Cabot

Following the ceremony there will be a reception at the Grews' country home known as "Juniper Hill." The bride, who made her debut about two Winters ago, is a member of the Junior League and the Vincent Club.

MISS HARRIET ROYCE

MISS HARRIET ROYCE made another helpful assistant at Jays shop the other day, when 20 per cent. of the sales were turned over to the Children's Hospital.

Miss Royce, who is pictured above wearing one of the smart coats of the shop, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Page Royce of "Pine Knoll," Dedham, and was one of the most popular debutantes of last year. She is a tall, slender brunette, and last Winter when society folk staged their "Animated Advertising Adventure" she made a very dashing Arrow Collar Man.

ALL sport-loving society is eagerly awaiting the Myopia Hunt Club's annual steeplechase taking place tomorrow at "Willowdale," the Topsfield estate of Bradley Palmer.

The cream of the Myopia riders will vie with each other in these much-talked-of races, and there is sure to be a smart throng of spectators lining the course to urge them on.

Tonight there will be a dinner at the Myopia clubhouse in Hamilton, which is certain to prove a jolly event.

AGED 'DON JUAN' SLASHED FOR 'SLANDER'

Lawrence, Oct. 19.—Revenge for an alleged attempt to steal his young wife by slandering him was the motive that led John Di Lucca to slash sixty-two-year-old Latonico Matori of Elm street.

"Fortura," or "poison tongue," Di Lucca called Matori's alleged wiles when he appealed a three-month sentence for disfiguring the latter's face.

Matori, according to Di Lucca and his twenty-one-year-old wife in court, had approached Mrs. Di Lucca at her home, pretending to be a soothsayer, and telling her that her husband was interested in another woman. She testified that Matori said the only way to break the spell of this woman over her husband was to go away with him and return later.

Mrs. Di Lucca told her husband, who went to Matori's house.

"I did not want to kill him," Di Lucca said. "I merely wanted to brand him so that he and others would have a constant reminder of what he had tried to do."

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 19 (I N S).—Hopes for international action on the St. Lawrence deep waterway project were blasted today by announcement of Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, that lack of finances placed Canada in an unfavorable position on the lakes-to-the-sea plan.

"SUICIDE'S" HAT IS FOUND NEAR LAKE

Worcester, Oct. 19.—John F. Kulbinsky, 22, of No. 10 Spofford road, disappeared from home, several days ago, leaving a note to the effect that he was going to end it all with a dip in the lake. His threat was given strength with the finding of a hat, bearing the initials "J. F. K." on the band, on the shore of Lake Quinsigamond in Shrewsbury, opposite the men's bathhouse.

Man Drank Quart a Day, Acquitted on Liquor Charge

Samuel Lekoveth of No. 5 Normandie street, was found not guilty by a jury in the Seventh Session of the Superior Criminal Court on a complaint for keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

Sergeant Harry Dickinson, who made the raid on the premises and found two gallons of liquor, testified that Lekoveth tried to bribe him. Lekoveth admitted having offered the bribe.

Lekoveth told the sergeant that because of sickness he drank a gallon of liquor each day. During the trial he told his counsel that if he did say that it was because of excitement and that he meant to say he drank a quart a day.

A Greater Boston Recipe for 330 Miles of Cookies

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 19, 1923.—For the baking of a wonderful new nut-covered Cookie, Krackerland suggests to the housewives of New England this recipe:

1,548,000 Cups Flour
12,600 Cups Shortening (lard and butter)
52,800 Cups Sugar
7,200 Cups Cocoanut
25,200 Cups Nuts
22,680 Eggs
14,400 Cups Milk
1,570,560 Teaspoons Baking Powder
2,700 Teaspoons Flavoring

Mix well together all ingredients except nuts; roll dough thin; sprinkle on nuts; cut to Cookie size and place in oven. $2,250 worth of city gas will be required for baking.

This recipe contains the amount of ingredients used in Krackerland to make the six millions of Educator French Cookies (300,000 pounds of them—150 tons of them—10 carloads of them—330 miles of them if laid side by side) that Greater Bostonians have eaten in less than four months.

If household dough-mixing and baking facilities are insufficient for such a gigantic recipe—Educator French Cookies in smaller quantities may be had at your grocer's for 25c a pound.

FORD MAY HEAD PROHIBITION 1924 TICKET

Los Angeles, Oct. 19.—Henry Ford, in all likelihood, will get the Presidential nomination of the Prohibition party, according to Virgil G. Henshaw, chairman of the Prohibition National Committee, who has issued a call for a national conference at Washington, December 12, to nominate candidates for President and Vice-President.

Henry Ford

"Ford seriously considered our proposal to nominate him in the last Presidential election, but eventually he decided to support President Wilson," Henshaw said. "This time, however, he is almost certain to be our choice."

"It seems that the Administration which has just been in power in Washington, while uttering beautiful platitudes, has made appointments literally designed to desecrate instead of enforce the law against liquor violations.

"What this nation needs is a new deal in government, and by the help of God and the people, whose eyes have not become blinded by their prejudice, it will have one in 1924."

CANADA INSISTS ON OWN TREATY

London, Oct. 19.—Premier Mackenzie King of Canada, speaking at a Canadian Club dinner given in his honor, referred to the Empire as a community of nations, in which each should have free opportunity to express its own national life. The greater this freedom, he said, the greater would be the confidence and pride of the various States in the Empire.

Referring to the halibut fisheries treaty between the United States and Canada, Premier King argued that the agreement was of concern only to those two countries, and that in having it signed by the Canadian Minister of Fisheries there had not been the slightest intention to show any discourtesy to the British Ambassador at Washington.

ENTIRE POLICE FORCE HUNTING LOST DOG

Special orders requesting all police officers in Boston to be on the lookout for a valuable German police dog owned by Miss Ruth Waldron, daughter of the owner of Waldron's Casino, were read at roll call in all police stations.

The dog, which answers to the name of Bumo, has an interesting war record and was once the property of Miss Waldron's fiance, a naval officer who died overseas.

Bumo disappeared two days ago from the home of Miss Waldron at No. 20 Athelwold street, Dorchester. He wore a collar with the name and address of his owner engraved upon it.

The dog was found by Miss Waldron's fiance floting on a log at sea. A boat was dispatched and the almost dead dog was rescued from his perilous position. Bumo became the steady companion of the officer. Later Bumo's owner contracted a disease and died overseas. Friends took care of Bumo, brought him to Boston and presented him to Miss Waldron as a token.

THOUSANDS SING PRAISE OF AMERICAN'S AUTO STROP RAZOR

ONLY TWO COUPONS AND 36 CENTS NEEDED

chased the little Autostrop razor since the American [illegible] distributing these shaving joys burst into the office of the razor editor with that statement. He meant it too, judging from the sincere note in his voice.

That is quite a boost for this wonderful razor which the American is giving its readers for only 36 cents and two razor coupons clipped on two consecutive days from the pages of the American.

What the razor is doing for this reader it will do for thousands more. It is a common thing to hear a man explain why his face is covered with stubbly growth by saying he can't stand shaving each day.

Some men have tender skin. These men rest their faces frequently and while doing so look like the original caveman.

Why not clip the coupon in the Boston American today and tomorrow and then try the Autostrop? Thousands of men throughout New England have done it and are happy.

RADIO SILENCED BY SOUTHERN STORMS?

There have been two periods within recent months when radio reception in this part of the country became nearly, if not quite, impossible. The first period lasted several days, beginning Sept. 27, and more recently broadcast listeners suffered from a "dead" period on October 15.

The final word on the cause of these dead periods is yet to be uttered, but it is interesting to note that on both these dates there were tropical storms of considerable violence which were moving rapidly northward.

On Sept. 27, a severe storm was centra[illegible] off the coast of Florida and moving northward. O[illegible] Oct. 15 another severe storm, this time originating in the Gulf, was moving over New Orleans.

J. W. Smith, government meteorologist in the Federal Building, states that the effect of these storms could easily be felt this far north. Both of these storms were unusually severe. There w[illegible] southern storms of equal severity between the two "dead" dates.

SUPER-POWER PLAN OF HOOVER PUSHED

The super-power plan calls for linking up all the electric generating stations in the area between Boston and Washington, adding a number of hydro-electric installations to them, and providing for steam generation of additional power by locating plants near to coal fields.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

GASOLINE PRICE TO BE SLASHED ONCE MORE

Detroit, Oct. 19.—Announcement of a decrease of two cents a gallon in the price of gasoline, effective today, was made by the White Star Refining Company and the Wayco Oil Company, two independent companies. The new price is 12.8 a gallon.

New York, Oct. 19 (Copyright, 1923, by I. N. S.)—New cuts in the price of gasoline are in prospect for the eastern part of the country, according to a survey conducted today by International News Service, but there is no immediate indication of any material reductions elsewhere.

The present price of gasoline is lower west of the Alleghanies.

In the Middle West, pivot point of a crusade against high gasoline prices this Summer, the price has been hammered down to a point that compares favorably with the alleged extortionate price in New York, 21 cents at the filling stations. On the Pacific Coast values are several cents lower than in New England.

Over-production is generally given as the reason for recent price drops.

Gasoline stocks, held by refiners on September 1 were estimated at 1,033,856,000 gallons. This stock under normal consumption would last but 43 days, the United States Bureau of Mines estimated. Oil men, however, persisted that over-production was the cause behind the forced cuts in price.

In the Eastern district, according to dispatches to the International News Service, Boston saw a reduction of from 21 cents to 18 cents. At Albany the price was 19 cents with independent selling at 17 cents, a drop in both cases from the 20 cents charged October 1.

Syracuse reported a uniform cost of 18 cents. Pittsburgh dealers were getting 19 cents plus a 2-cent State tax. New York City paid 21 cents at filling stations.

In the Middle Western district, Chicago prices were quoted at 15.4, the prevailing figure since August 14, when a reduction of 6.6 cents a gallon was made "to meet competition."

Des Moines, Iowa, reported a general price of 14.5 in the city and 16.5 through the rural districts. Indianapolis was getting 16.2 plus a 2-cent State tax, following an August reduction of 5.6 cents a gallon.

Columbus, Ohio, cut prices 1.5 two weeks ago, the cost now being 19 cents. Cleveland, Ohio, had a reduction of 4 cents during the last month, bringing the price to 19 cents today.

COOLIDGE APPROVES NARCOTIC CRUSADE

Washington, Oct. 19.—Congress will be called upon to adopt the same methods to stop the issue of narcotic drugs that are now being employed against liquor. An appropriation will be sought to set up a separate and highly efficient government bureau which will devote its whole time to this work.

Rep. Porter

Representative Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the House foreign relations committee, and active crusader against narcotics, took the matter up with President Coolidge.

After furnishing the President with statistics showing that there are millions of drug addicts in the United States, Mr. Porter, it is understood, won Mr. Coolidge's approval for any campaign that will wipe out the evil.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Jad Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains or Bothers You

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

A Delightful Romance with an Unusual Heroine

This Story Will Be Shown Soon in Motion Pictures Starring Marion Davies at One of Your Favorite Theatres in Boston

A Charming Serial of Love and Adventure in the Picturesque Days of the Beginnings of the Astor and Vanderbilt Fortunes

Larry's friends try to make a man out of Pat (Marion Davies)

THE STORY SO FAR:

Larry Delavan, a fashionable young man in the days when Fulton was perfecting his steamboat in New York, expects that his stepfather will leave him his large fortune. When John Jacob Astor reads the will he discovers that all the property goes to a nephew, Patrick O'Day, in Ireland. Astor is made trustee and Larry guardian of the heir. Delavan is terribly disappointed. The O'Day family is about to be evicted from their poor home in Ireland, when a strange solicitor appears and informs them of their good fortune. Patricia, disguised as her brother, who dies on the trip, and her father, arrive in New York. Delavan becomes interested in Robert Fulton's steamboat and promises $10,000 of the expenses. Pat acts queerly for a boy, but Delavan does not suspect.

LARRY bowed before Ariana. But she angered by resentment she had seen for a moment in his eyes, turned away without a word.

"I'm sorry, Larry," said Betty, as she turned to follow.

"I think we will make our excuses now," said Irving. "I told you we had an engagement with Larry, Betty."

"I know," she said concerned. "You—oh, don't let him stay up so late, night after night! I hear you, often in the night"——

"We must make an end of that, certainly," said Brevoort. "Too many would hold us to account if anything we did robbed Mistress Betty Schuyler of her beauty sleep and dimmed the roses in her cheeks."

"You need make none of your pretty speeches to me, Henry Brevoort," said Betty. "Save them for Ariana—I believe she has grown used to them."

"Not for me," said Brevoort, beneath his breath.

"Nor for me," Irving echoed. "Come, Henry."

They followed Larry, who had already gone into the house—to be met by a penitent Pat.

"I hope you'll be forgiving me," she said. "I'd no call to be rude—but, I declare, that mincing miss would try the patience of a saint."

"I've no time to talk to you now," said Larry, gruffly. "Be off with you—and try to learn to keep a civil tongue in your head when you meet ladies or I'll be trying whether a switch will teach you manners."

Irving and Brevoort, as Betty taking their coming as a signal, set out glasses and decanters on the great table, looked at one another. Brevoort shrugged his shoulders.

"I feel as you do, Wash," he said, "but what is one to do? A man in love is blind."

"Deaf, too—and if nature were wise, he'd be dumb as well!" said Irving, with a show of irritation. "Hang it, Henry—the boy's instinct is sound! He sees she's nothing but a bunch of affectations, without a brain in her head—or a heart in her body."

"Granted, but Larry doesn't feel so," said Brevoort. "And I suppose it's his affair."

"We can't make it ours—that much is sure," said Irving. "Ah—well—there's this much comfort—it's a long way to Harlem, and Larry has no coach to ride out these days when he's of a mind [illegible] to make that journey [illegible] to [illegible] be a [illegible] yet."

SECRETS OF HEALTH

HOW TO CARE FOR YOUR COMPLEXION

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.

Former President of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Reed

BEGIN the care of your complexion by remembering that the removal of the dead epithelial cells, so essential to a good complexion, is facilitated by frequent bathing with tepid water, a milk alkali such as pure toilet soap and gentle friction followed by rinsing in cold water.

[illegible] be remembered that the epithelium, which varies in thickness in different persons, can easily be dissolved away by strong alkalies or rubbed away by frequent and vigorous friction. [illegible] the unprotected true skin is exposed in small areas or spots that are more or less tender and painful.

A more important phase of this condition is the fact that the epithelium is the natural protective of the true skin against invasion by germs which now get in through these little breaches in the outer defenses of the body, causing inflammation of the true skin (dermatitis) sometimes with suppurations or abscesses.

One of the most perplexing annoyances is the development of "blotches" or "liver spots," so called because their brown appearance is presumed to be caused by bile retained in [illegible]. They are in fact accumulations of pigment derived from the epithelium [illegible] to defective [illegible] in the affected areas.

HARVARD IS FAVORITE OVER HOLY CROSS

Practice tapers off in the Stadium this afternoon when Head Coach Fisher applies the last deft touches to the Harvard gridiron machine, gives his last instructions and delivers his orders before it rumbles out to battle with Holy Cross tomorrow.

Comeowich

Despite the showing against Middlebury, Gordon and Hill, ends, Eastman and Dunker, tackles; Captain Hubbard and Grew, guards, and Greenough, centre, all veterans who saw action against Yale last year, are considered the greatest line in the East.

Harvard is a [illegible] favorite [illegible] the season is a [illegible]

Holy Cross played three games and won [illegible] lopsided scores. Yet the team is [illegible] The [illegible] has encountered [illegible] at pace [illegible]

LEE IS EXPECTED TO START AS QUARTERBACK.

Lee is expected to start at quarter and Rowe and Cook [illegible] halfback berths, Hammond will play fullback [illegible] do the punting.

Jenkins is out of the game because of injuries sustained last week. Whether McL[illegible] will play is still a matter of speculation. He has engaged in light signal practice during the week and Fisher may throw him into the quarterback berth if things go badly with the Crimson.

The work of Earl "Buck" Evans will be watched with special attention, as he will probably make his debut as a tackle tomorrow. Evans played end in the first two games but he proved too slow on his feet and with his hands.

Eastman is suffering from a minor injury and Fisher may see fit to substitute Evans [illegible] game. If he does [illegible] Harvard men will have the first opportunity to see the Westerner in his new role.

HOLY CROSS PINS HOPE ON GLENNON AND MAHANEY

Holy Cross pins hope on Glennon, 156 pound back, a triple threat, and Hilary Mahaney, 21[illegible] pound end, one of the only two veterans who started against Harvard last year. Harvard has perfected a defence for Glennon who can run, punt and forward pass with facility and he'll be a marked man in the game tomorrow.

Mahaney [illegible] and whom experts have already selected as All-America timber, is expected to be a big factor to clear out a path for Glennon. [illegible] Harvard offensive formations to smithereens and nail the Harvard quarterback who will try to gather in Glennon's punts. The two work together.

In the backfield with Glennon probably will be Harry McMahon, quarterback, and John Crowley. The backfield is one of the lightest in college football.

Al Butler will pair at end with Mahaney, while between them in the tackle berths will be Arthur Ray, 180 pounds, and Charley Carlton, 1[illegible] pounds. Natie Coleman of Waltham, a 174 pound freshman, and Hal Sullivan, 190 pounds, will be the guards. Jim Lonergan, 168 pounds, will play centre.

AMATEURS BATTLE AT ST. JOE'S SHOW

Amateur boxers will get into action again under the direction of the St. Joseph's T. A. S. at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin square, next Friday night, according to an announcement [illegible] last night by W[illegible] Cody.

SHIFT DATE OF TRIANGULAR MEET

A shifting in the date of the Harvard-Dartmouth-Cornell triangular track meet is one of the important rearrangements in the Fall and Winter track schedules announced by Brooks Whitehouse, assistant track manager.

The meet was originally slated to take place on February 23 but the date was shifted to February 16. This change involves the shift of the new indoor interscholastic meet scheduled for February 23 to February 16 also.

This year, for the first time, the annual Fall open handicap track meet, given by the H. A. A. and open to all members of the university, will be held in two divisions.

The first, which will occur on November 1, will be for track events only.

Field events will be held late in November, so that men on the football team may participate.

WILSON AND ROBINSON FIT FOR BOUT AT ARENA TONIGHT

BIG CROWD TO SEE BATTLE

By JACK CONWAY

Johnny Wilson, former world's middleweight champion, will start his drive to win back his lost title when he clashes with George Robinson of Cambridge in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Suffolk A. A.'s show at the Boston Arena tonight.

There is tremendous interest in the battle between the conqueror of Mike O'Dowd and the Cambridge middleweight. The Arena will be jammed to capacity to see these bitter rivals in action.

Wilson and Robinson both stated today they were in the best of condition and prepared to furnish a furious engagement. Each is out to smash his way to the head of his boxing division. Wilson is determined to win a return match with Harry Greb, while Robinson is also out to secure an engagement with the Pittsburgh sensation.

WILSON SAYS HE WILL BE "FIGHTING FOOL."

"I shall be a fighting fool until I have won back my lost title," declared Wilson today. "I would have defeated Greb if it had not been for two years of idleness. Every time I hit Harry with a left-hand punch to the body, he winced. In the thirteenth round I had him hanging on.

"I made the mistake of tackling Greb before I had engaged in a couple of tough trial matches. Even under these conditions I gave Greb a harder battle than did Tom Gibbons or Gene Tunney. If he meets me again at 160 pounds, I shall knock him out.

"And Greb must battle me once more. If he doesn't I shall hound him from city to city. I shall fight and defeat those challengers he refuses to meet. I shall prove to the public that I am the real middleweight champion.

"As champion, I made the mistake of worrying too much about my title. This impaired my work in the ring. Today things are different. I stand before the world as a dethroned champion, but with the confidence and ability that will enable me to batter my way back to the pugilistic heights."

WEALTHY SPORTSMAN IS DIRECTING EX-CHAMPION.

Frank Marlow, wealthy New York sportsman, is now directing Wilson. It is reported that Marlow paid Marty Killilea $60,000 for the latter's contract with the former champion.

Marlow has money, brains, aggressiveness and confidence in Wilson. He believes these qualities will enable him to gain for Johnny a return match for Greb. And Marlow, like Wilson, believes that the Charlestown favorite can conquer the present title holder.

ROBINSON MAY UPSET WILSON'S PLANS TONIGHT.

Before Wilson can even think seriously of another tussle with Greb he must first win over George Robinson. This is a tough assignment. Robinson, veteran of more than a dozen years of ring battling, has been the stumbling block in the path of many aspirants for boxing honors.

Wilson, more than any fighter, realizes what a ring wonder Robinson is. Four times these men have met while the calcium has flickered overhead. Once Wilson left the ring with a decision. On another occasion Robinson was the one to grab the verdict.

The other two bouts were no-decision affairs. Of these two matches, one was even, while in the other Robinson dropped Wilson, who at the time was middleweight champion, to the canvas on three different occasions.

Robinson has trained harder than ever for tonight's tussle. When he started work he scaled 172 pounds. Jim MacDonald, his manager, now says the Cambridge man weighs close to 160 pounds. This means he is in condition to put up the battle of his career.

Matchmaker Tom Goodwin of the Suffolk A. A. will make an effort to match the winner of tonight's contest with Greb. His only stipulation is that the bout be at 160 pounds and the middleweight championship be at stake. He is prepared to offer Greb a $10,000 guarantee with a privilege of 40 per cent. of the receipts for such a contest. The challenger would be paid $5,000 with a 20 per cent. privilege.

WOLF LARSEN AND COTTER IN THE SEMI-FINAL

Wolf Larsen, former amateur champion, will have Tom Cotter of Quincy as an opponent in the semi final of eight rounds. Larsen, a kayo artist, has proved a riot in his recent bouts. Cotter is a rough, tough fellow and should cause Wolf plenty of opposition.

Frankie Pitcher of Newark, a stable-mate of George Ward's, will oppose Walter Lee of Denver, conqueror of William Gould, in another eight. Andy Martin and Andy Parker, South End rivals, will don the gloves in another eight.

The Suffolk A. A. office at No. 305 Washington street reports there are still plenty of choice reservations left.

Jack Conway Picks Wilson to Win Over Robinson

Jack Conway, holder of the world's record for picking winners, hands out the low down on tonight's Suffolk A. A. show at the Boston Arena

"I have seen Johnny Wilson fight fifteen to twenty times," says Jack, "but I never saw him make such a remarkable showing as he did when he clashed with Harry Greb in New York. If Wilson had engaged in a couple of tough bouts before meeting Greb, he would have won. Greb, the world's greatest light-heavyweight, cannot make 160 pounds and show at his best.

"I am picking Wilson to win over Robinson tonight on the form the former champion showed against Greb. I also think Johnny will now fight better as he won't be worrying about losing his title.

"Robinson will give Wilson a bitter fight. George has always had the Indian sign on Wilson. He says he will practice his magic again tonight.

"Larsen is my choice over Cotter."

Jack has picked 115 winners out of a possible 137.

New York, Oct. 19.—According to announced plans, Tom Walsh, manager of Joe Burman, will go before the meeting of the State Athletic Commission today and lay claim to the bantamweight championship, held by Joe Lynch. The latter was to have met Burman in a title bout tonight, but injured himself yesterday in a fall from his automobile and claimed that he was unable to go on. I have been [illegible] lumber camps myself. I know the roads and I know the difficulties of transportation and I fear that he won't be [illegible] time to do his daily work. And so I am sending this to all the [illegible] pages that he serves.

I have no idea what he would have written about had he been here. I know that he has made three or four speeches at points along the way, and that he will be tired and fatigued when he returns and because I am his friend and fellow-worker, I am making this humble effort to fill the space that his stuff would occupy.

He writes mostly about things that have to do with money. I suppose it is because he is Scotch. I am Scotch too, but I came by way of Canada, and I was ruined there. I get all I can and I spend it but I can't write about it.

Anyway, I've got to protect him and the[illegible] anything more but I [illegible] but that just at this moment there comes a telephone message that he is on the way. But I know he won't be home in time—it's two hours from where the telephone message came and I hope you'll forgive him just for tonight.

And while I've been sitting here worrying about him the bell boys have been bringing telegrams to me, addressed to him, and I've been opening them and nobody ever sent me any telegrams like them. There's one that reads like this:

"Olympia, Washington, Oct. 17.—B. C. Forbes, [illegible] editor, Hearst, Seattle, Washington.

"United Church [illegible] evening forum wants you to speak here Sunday 7:30. The capital city of the State wants to see and hear you. Wire me collect.

(Signed) T. Simpson, [illegible] Pastor."

And here [illegible]

"B. C. [illegible] Intelligencer [illegible] W[illegible] When [illegible] B[illegible] ington [illegible] North[illegible] ou with. And [illegible] that [illegible] other [illegible] her [illegible] first [illegible] I'm no [illegible] [illegible] to be [illegible] for [illegible] more [illegible]

NARROW PRICE CHANGES IN BOSTON

Narrow price changes favored the constructive side on the Boston Stock Exchange. Except in Ventura Consolidated and one or two other home offerings trading was extremely quiet.

Ventura was favored with a good-sized amount of outside buying. Within the first few minutes the stock appreciated nearly a point. Then it climbed to 25½, a net gain of 1¼ points. The shares, however, failed to hold at this level.

News that Amoskeag Manufacturing would reopen some of its mills on Monday sent the shares 2½ points higher. The preferred stock yielded 1⅛ points.

Both General Electric and Boston & Maine preferred were among the strong offerings.

Fractional gains were made by American Sugar preferred, American International, Boston Elevated second preferred, Copper Range, Greenfield Tap & Die, Pacific Mills, United Shoe common, Waldorf System and Warren Bros. common.

Slight reactions were registered by Boston & Albany, Boston & Maine common, Edison Electric, Island Creek Coal common, U. S. Smelting preferred and Walworth Manufacturing.

Boston Notes

ALTHOUGH Boston & Maine's September results will not come up to those of August, which was by all odds the best month of the year so far as net earnings and surplus after charges were concerned, it will probably show fixed charges more than covered.

WALWORTH MANUFACTURING is reasonably certain to show earnings of not less than $7 a share on its $4,000,000 common stock this fiscal and calendar year. This allows for all deductions, including dividends on the $1,000,000 of 6 per cent. preferred stock.

FRANCISCO Sugar Company's annual report for year ended June 30 shows net profit of $1,091,697, against $36,363 in 1922. Surplus for the year after dividends $991,697, against 1922 deficit of $56,137.

AMOSKEAG Manufacturing announces that it will resume operations in part in three different mills of its cotton department Monday.

RESUMPTION of anthracite mining has brought coal movement in line with movement of other commodities now, and a record Fall is promised for the New Haven.

GILLETTE earnings since July 1 have fully maintained the pace of the first half-year, in which net profits totaled $4,244,867.

CONCENTRATION at Anaconda of zinc ore from Butte & Superior mine in Butte will result in operation on twenty-four-hour basis of zinc unit at Anaconda Reduction Works, says L. V. Bender, general manager of Anaconda plant.

UNITED FRUIT earnings carry assurance final figures for this year will show balance for 1,000,000 shares of stock of over $20,000,000.

DURING year to October 4 Warren Brothers secured contracts for 7,873,087 square yards of pavement, as compared with 9,070,249 square yards during corresponding period of 1922.

TANNERS have been passing through the longest period of hard sledding ever witnessed in the industry. It has lasted virtually three years, with few flushes of improvement.

LEATHER BUSINESS does not necessarily move along lines of general business. In the great depression of 1893, when leather business was very good, mills and factories in many lines were closed.

MAGNITUDE OF Chile operation is appreciated when it is seen that 3,300,712 tons of ore, or 550,118 tons a month are treated in half year to June 30.

25 P. C. Cut in Auto Output for 1924 Is Forecast

Total output of roughly 3,000,000 cars and trucks during the year 1924 is forecast by Standard Daily Trade Service. This will be about 25 per cent. below this year's output, and more than 25 per cent. below the industry's productive capacity.

It will be five times the volume of the peak year before the war; 60 per cent. greater than 1917, the peak year of the war period; 50 per cent. greater than 1919; 36 per cent. greater than 1920; 80 per cent. greater than the sag year of 1921, and even 13 per cent. in the lead of the recovery year of 1922.

This Service states that: "The present trend of prices in the auto field is unmistakably downward."

WEAKENING IN COMMODITY PRICES

A premature weakening of commodity prices has been the chief recent development, Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions states.

"General trade is more dependent than usual upon the question of prices and in the typical year there is a steady advance from mid-Summer to January based upon the large purchasing power engendered by the Autumn trade. Thus our stock and bond markets seem to be a true barometer of the business situation.

"One industry which, however, is booming, is the production and sale of electricity. Every month this year has shown a large gain over last year. The producers are not much affected by labor costs, because they do not employ much labor, while coal is cheaper than it was a year ago, and, therefore, profits are satisfactory.

"The so-called gold glut is causing uneasiness to those who fear that it will bring on credit inflation. Experience shows, however, that credits expand when business opportunities, or possibilities of profit, are large, and contract when they are small, whether our stock of gold increases or not. Thus gold supplies do not dominate volume of credits and the gold glut is harmless so long as our Federal reserve system is permitted to follow conservative banking practices."

RECORD HANDICAP OF FREIGHT TRAFFIC

Washington, Oct. 19.—Railroad cars loaded with revenue freight during the week ending October 6 numbered 1,079,690 or 17,784 less than during the previous week. The car service division of the American Railway Association points out, however, in reporting these figures, that the October 6 week loadings were 125,739 cars greater than during the same week last year.

For the first forty weeks of the present year, including that of October 6, 38,388,551 loaded cars were handled by railroads, the report said, adding that this total was by far the greatest amount of freight traffic ever handled in a like period.

NEW YORK SEEKS $95,000,000 BONDS

New York, Oct. 19.—New York State will have $95,000,000 in new serial bonds to place on the market before the end of the year if the two propositions submitted to the voters on November 6 are approved. One amendment to the State Constitution would legalize the issuance of $45,000,000 soldier bonus bonds voted last year, but declared illegal by the courts. Voters will also be asked to approve the issuance of $50,000,000 bonds for construction of State institutions.

MATCH CONCERN TO OFFER BONDS

Arrangements have been completed for the issue of $15,000,000 debenture bonds of the International Match Corporation for the acquisition and construction of match factories in Mexico, South America and Canada. The issue will be offered by a syndicate headed by Lee, Higginson & Co.

BOOZE CRUSADE FROM PULPITS IN HAVERHILL

Backed by affidavits charging that liquor graft is rampant in Haverhill and that liquor places are running wide open in various sections of the city, the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, will open on Sunday, in sixteen Haverhill churches a law enforcement week drive.

Sworn statements from two trained investigators who, in two days, gathered evidence in the Shoe City, will be read from pulpits and later in the week from public platforms and before prominent organizations.

PROPRIETORS KNOWN

These affidavits will describe the location of the places where it is claimed liquor is being sold, describe the interiors and even the workers and proprietors in them.

They will charge that men operating these places told of being "friends with the police."

They will tell of those who claim there is a regular "collector" who carries the bag around at stated intervals.

"The assessors' rolls show that one of these places is owned by an official in one of Haverhill's leading churches," said Dist. Supt. Malcolm C. Davis, in charge of the drive. "This place is a pool room," he added.

"TIPPED OFF" IS CLAIM

The affidavits will also tell of a man who claimed he was always tipped off before a raid because he was friendly with the authorities.

Back of the effort are the Ministers' Association and the Haverhill Federation of Churches. Various organizations are co-operating.

As a result of the investigation affidavits were secured that twenty places are engaged in illegal liquor traffic in the city. One of these is within a few few hundred yards of police headquarters, it is claimed. Many are in the downtown section.

Different proprietors of one of the places have been in court several times, Supt. Davis said.

MASS MEETING CALLED

Following the Sunday start, a big mass meeting will be held in High School hall with addresses before the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday and the Rotary Club on Thursday, at luncheons.

R. P. Hutton, State superintendent of the League and Dist. Supt. Davis, as will G. Loring Briggs, chairman of the League's executive committee with other speakers, will address various meetings, reading affidavits. Jesse Bourne, president of the Haverhill Federation of Churches, will preside at the mass meeting. City officials, members of the school board, Federal, State and County officials of the city and the clergy of both Catholic and Protestant faiths will be invited to sit upon the platform.

According to Supt. Davis, Haverhill is wetter than Lowell but dryer than Lawrence.

Liquor is sold on Sundays in some places and also to men already drunk the affidavits show. He adds that one prominent man in official life in Haverhill told a League man that he "didn't want to get the parsons stirred up."

HIGH LIVING BAD FOR TEETH, SAYS DOCTOR

"High living is again killing the American people. The American diet of rich and non-nutritious foods starts in its work with the teeth and the average person doesn't realize the trouble."

That is according to Dr. A. A. Hunt, secretary of the New England Dental Society, which opened its annual meeting at Tufts Dental School.

The Virginia will continue to be conducted on the same general principles which insured its success for so many years.

Narragansett Hotel Rehabilitated

When Mr. Joseph E. Fletcher took over the ownership of the Narragansett Hotel at Providence a year ago, he adopted two slogans: "The best or none at all" and "Patronize your neighborhood merchants."

An army of workmen were engaged from local concerns and every room has been repapered and redecorated, and furniture replaced with the best money can buy. In the lobby Mr. Fletcher has displayed his love for art and his collection of paintings is estimated to be worth over one half million dollars. The main cafe [illegible] hangings and decorations of palms and ferns, a new dance floor where every evening music is dispensed by Charles Andrew Vespa and his Narragansett Hotel orchestra, the grill room where Providence business men gather each day to take advantage of the exceptionally fine food which is offered at popular prices, all are popular features of the Narragansett, and we take pleasure in highly recommending this house to the traveling public.

Largest Evening Circulation in New England—October 19, 1923

The settlement with the State for Boston's water supply system, passed under metropolitan control in 1898, was the largest the city had engaged in.

Hoover's $500,000,000 Plan

Man-Saving Is the Problem

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Herbert Hoover has a plan for saving five hundred million DOLLARS and fifty million tons of COAL every year to buyers of electricity in the East. He would spend $1,250,000,000 to establish a "super-power" system, with high power transmission, crossing State lines. That would more than pay for itself every three years.

With immigration cut off the big problem of this country is saving MAN POWER, now wasted digging coal, shoveling it into furnaces, etc.

The most important task before this country is the use of government resources and State co-operation to provide cheap power.

Marvels have been accomplished in individual plants. In the Eline factory at Milwaukee there is a power plant capable of developing 12,000 horsepower that can be run by three men, including care of furnaces and engines.

No human hand touches the coal, which is baked and the dust separated from it automatically before it goes into the furnace. The dust goes in separately, "sprayed" on the fire bed. The ashes are carried away in dust. That's a start.

Chinese Rule?

It Depends on the Mind

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Line Barger says the Chinese will control the whole world "when they absorb Western ideas." The Chinese are able, industrious, economical and honest. They number probably between seven and eight hundred millions of people. The Chinese census pays little or no attention to very young children and very old people, being taken simply for purposes of taxation.

If all the Chinese children lived and raised average families, and escaped plague and famine, the Chinese race could soon overrun the world. But "the Lord arranged it so that the trees shall not grow into the heavens."

[illegible] it is not absorbing the Western idea, but possessing the Western MIND, that creates ideas, and they give dominion.

The Chinese will rule the world if they are the ablest people on it, in which case they OUGHT to rule it. If they are not the ablest they won't rule, no matter how numerous they may be.

Two Short, Sharp Turns

They Might Prevent Disasters

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

A train struck a school motor bus at Rootstown, Ohio, and killed eight children. The railroads couldn't abolish all grade crossings if they wanted to. Half the job would bankrupt them. But it would be possible before every grade crossing to alter the highway any way that would compel motor drivers to make two short right-hand or left-hand turns, all within a hundred yards, before crossing the tracks. This would compel drivers to think about the trains, compel them to slow down, which is more important. It wouldn't cost much and would prevent at least 90 per cent. of grade-crossing accidents.

For instance, John Sullivan of St. Louis raced his truck to beat a fast train, the train beat HIM and he is dead. He wouldn't have raced had he been compelled to slow down and make two short, sharp, right or left-hand turns before crossing the track. It is necessary to protect fools and children against themselves.

Protect Locomotives

Robbery an Established Industry

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Robbers held up a Southern Pacific train, murdered the engineer, fireman, mail clerk, giving them no chance for their lives, blew open a safe and escaped.

Wouldn't it be possible and wouldn't it pay to protect engineers and firemen with a bullet-proof vestibule between tender and locomotive, bullet-proofing high enough to protect tender and cab? Bullet-proof glass in the cab and ventilation from above would protect from shots in front. Such protection, for dangerous runs only, would not be very expensive and the government might share the cost to protect the mails.

Outside the New York Central Station in Chicago you may see a row of high-powered trucks, each carrying away an iron safe nearly half as big as a freight car, and loaded directly from the train on to the truck, to foil mail robbers. Evidently highway robbery must be dealt with as one of the important modern industries.

When Will War Die Out?

When We Realize That It Does Not Pay

Copyright, 1923, Star Co

H. G. Wells says human beings are deprived of flying machine delights because each European nation seeks to keep others from developing flying machines.

France won't let Germany build flying machines. Other nations won't let foreigners fly over their land. All fear air fighting.

On the other hand, war has developed the flying machine and many other useful things. Without the big war, flying machines would still be experiments instead of reality. War has developed better horses, automobiles, tanks—the ideal pulling machines. War has increased knowledge of chemistry and the unchaining of its hidden forces.

War will die away in good time when men learn that murdering each other is not profitable. And the knowledge developed by war will last.

MENACE TO UNIONS IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Will unemployment kill trade unionism in England? That is a question that many serious-minded Labor leaders are asking themselves.

"The presence of a large number of unemployed is, in the employers' hands, the strongest weapon to weaken the position of men who work," warns J. R. Clynes, Labor M. P.

Clynes declares that unless the labor organizations gird their loins and take serious and definite steps to aid in bringing about an end to unemployment the employers can undermine the power of unions and bring workers into an entirely submissive frame of mind through shear fear of lack of employment

Prizes by Board

Editor Boston American:

Why doesn't the Planning Board of the City of Boston offer a real good money prize for suggestions? It will make it worth while. There are opinions that will never be given for charity. You can't eat charity or praise.

An idea will save or may save millions of dollars in years to come. The main problem is to distribute traffic. I think I'm right and there certainly is a way. DANIEL J. SULLIVAN.

Dorchester

Tipping Habit

Editor Boston American:

No doubt the American public tips more and gets less for its tips than any nation in existence. We have long ceased to tip merely as a reward for good service; it has become more or less of an after-meal habit, regardless of the kind of service rendered, and it has even gotten to the point where we feel small in our own opinion if we fail to tip. Are we as American citizens content to give away millions of dollars each year in tips for service which is worse than useless, or should we make tips a reward for faithful, conscientious service?

GEORGE T. THOMPSON.

Blinders for Drivers

Editor Boston American:

More than three-fourths of automobile accidents, in my opinion, are due to driver's wandering optics. It would be my advice that all taxi, bus and motor-truck drivers be forced to wear blinders so that they could keep their eyes in front of them.

Family Generously Aided

Editor Helping Hand:

Yesterday my husband I took some things out to M. P., Salem. We found that the things we took were very much needed. We had some dresses for the mother and somethings that could be made over for the mother, and they were very grateful for all. The twelve-year-old girl had on a new dress that had been sent them last week and a pair of [illegible]

he mother had received the five dollars sent to her through the Helping Hand, and was going to buy coal with it. It is wicked the way the landlords gouge the poor people. We took a pair of shoes with us and they fitted the girl so she is all right for a while but she needs a Winter coat as well as the others. I wish I could supply all their needs, [illegible] The mother has [illegible] she can't go to [illegible] bears it all uncom[illegible] is very grateful [illegible] for all that is don[illegible]

MRS. [illegible] R.

We thank you very much both for all you have done and for letting us know about it.

Needs Baby Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a young married girl of twenty-one, and would like to know if any kind reader could help us a little. I have just had an operation and am expecting to become a mother in a short time. My husband is young and my last bills for doctor and hospital are unpaid, and the bills are piling up, and we are much in debt. His pay scarcely covers our food and rent, and the result is that I am worrying night and day trying to plan ways to live and pay bills. Now if some reader could help me by sending me some baby clothes for the coming event, for I have nothing at all. I would greatly appreciate it and would have one burden lifted from my shoulders.

MRS. M. F.

Needs Many Things

Editor Helping Hand:

I am the mother of four children and my husband, through no fault of his own, has been twice out of work in the past six months. He is now looking for work, and I hope he gets a job in a day or two, but with rent to pay, and coal and food for six, there is no money to buy clothes. I would be very thankful for a boy's Winter overcoat, size ten or twelve, also boy's underwear, size nine or ten, a pair of boy's high shoes, and also a woman's Winter coat, size 40 or 42. I have also a little girl, aged eleven who is in need of warm dresses if it is not too much to ask. I could make things over for her.

MRS. L. D.

Woman Needs Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there some kind reader who has a Winter coat, nice and warm, that they have no further use for and would be willing to give to an elderly woman who is an invalid from rheumatism. She cannot walk without great difficulty. The doctor would like to have her go out, but she cannot walk. There are several kind-hearted neighbors who have offered to take her out automobile riding, but she has no heavy warm coat. She would prefer one with big wide armholes, as her arms and hands are very lame and sore. Here is a very deserving case, as she cannot afford to buy anything in the shape of a heavy coat. Besides being an invalid, she is nearly totally deaf, sees out of only one eye, and the other is badly affected. She wears size 40 or 42 in a heavy loose coat. I would be willing to call and get the coat for her, as she cannot go anywhere herself.

MISS E. A. B.

Family in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

Would you kindly help a poor thirteen-year-old girl who is in poor circumstances? My father is out of work and I am the oldest of seven children, and my mother expects another next month. She would be very thankful if you could give her some baby clothes. If someone could give me a Winter coat, I would be very thankful.

MARY C.

Bundle of Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a bundle of clothing, including an overcoat for a boy ten or twelve and several women's coats and other articles. Will you give my name to someone who could use them and ask them to call any morning before noon.

MRS. C. B.

Thank you. Your address has been sent to Mrs. M. T., and she has been asked to call as you request.

Needs Christening Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if there is some kind person who has some Christening clothes for a baby who is expected in four weeks. While looking over my baby clothes I find the moths have got into them, and it is impossible to buy more, as my husband is working only three days a week just now. I hope to be able to help in some way myself when our troubles are over.

MRS. M. H. D.

Wants Cooking Stove

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a poor woman seventy-five years old, living alone, and would like a cooking stove, or a bureau and chair. My stove smokes badly and I cannot make a fire.

M. B. 5.

OPPORTUNITY OPENS ANOTHER BATCH OF EGGS

By Herbert Kaufman

A YOUNG poled Angus steer glares through the bars of his cattle car into the window. As far as the eye can reach are strings of empties. The West is shipping beef. Two range riders, one a red sweatered boy on a woolly shetland, paused at the crossing and wave their quirts as the train stops at Lavina.

Lowing droves pour down the outlying sage-scabbed buttes. Herds mill through the draws en route to loading pens. A horseman spurs his calico pony to head off a bunch of strays. If a certain young checker doesn't pay more attention to his business and less to a pair of Eastern girls watching the caged eagle in a little park snuggling by the signal tower, somebody's accounts are apt to be jumbled.

Electric Lights and False Fronts

Time's impatient sponge will soon wash out such scenes. The new era crowds fast upon the old. Fences succeed the open range. Alfalfa replaces bunch grass. The long horn yields to the Durham, Hereford and Angus, and they in turn must give ground before Holstein and Jersey. Thoroughbred swine appear in adjacent mead as progress beckons dairy expert, intensive farmer, merchant, manufacturer and capitalist to come and push frontiers further back into the blue distance.

The vanguard has already arrived. Main street flaunts its concrete pavement in the muddy face of yesterday's humble trails.

Five light standards incongruously illuminate unpainted false front shacks.

A high-power automobile stands at the front of a house through the back door of which a snowy gander impudently swaggers.

Nests of tanks, still waiting for virgin coats of paint, signify oil discoveries in the neighborhood.

Several grain elevators and a flour mill loom above the water tank.

The Battle of the Titans

Local aristocracy indicates its presence by a brick and limestone apartment house on the heights, and the noon whistle of a prosperous colliery enthusiastically boosts the region as a factory site.

One more nest of opportunity, one more hatching egg from which banks and canning plants and mercantile companies and refineries will later spring. Over the hills lies Hawlowton, division point of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, an humble laboratory, where the most significant experiment in transcontinental transportation is working out. Here, thousands of miles away from population and production centres, steam and electricity have chosen an isolated battlefield for their final struggle.

The locomotive retires in defeat and a creature of monstrous dynamos, the supreme creation of engineering, grim and silent and monstrously powered, stands in the traces.

A six hundred and forty-mile journey now on energy furnished by water falls leagues away from our tracks. Down we race and up we fly, plunging into valleys where dinosaurs ravaged and mastodons grazed, then minding a string of cars no more than a kite its tail, the Titan grandson of Franklin's key, leaps headlong toward the roof of the continent. Up, up, up into cloud-brushing peaks, a prairie schooner pops into sight and is lost in the mists.

A Ride on a Meteor

We ride on a meteor, a brook so near that one can for an instant almost dip fingers in the creaming crystal water.

A moment after, fortresses of Cyclops assault high heaven, their serrated hulks seemingly laid tier upon tier by Olympian masons.

Vocabularies are the product of shore dwellers and Moor folk. Description lacks phrases to capture the pellmell succession of anyone and amber vistas, venerable evergreens painted against molten skies and horizons of purple terraces outlined in gleaming ice.

Miles and miles and miles of aboriginal grandeur with only fence posts and steel rails and telegraph wires yet to signalize the landing of Columbus.

Log cabins and wolf dens, gypsy balls of tumble weed and a steer's bleaching skull. Settlements approach—we look on open meadows with trout streams to tempt Isaac Walton from the grave. Here's a snug farm that might have been lifted bodily from the Grampians; lucky the man whose back yard holds painted, eroded cliffs, fit to baffle the brush of Morgan himself.

What must have been the agonies of nature when she reached forth these landscapes, how tenderly since she has covered stark granites and crumbling sandstones with healing mosses and fugitive blooms.

Back home, fools barter and haggle, slaves moil and toil, pinch soul and imagination and starve impulse to purchase dreary urban inches, proudly vaunting possession of hen-coop space, while millions and millions of the noblest acres yearn for sound of a human voice and ache to be mothers of cities.

And such cities as they shall be, heat and light and power from adjacent water falls, no grime, no slime, no soot, no disease-infected air; the nation's fruit baskets, bread boxes and pastures for suburbs and local inclusive manufacturing centres to provide employment and economically serve all needs.

Westward the course of development must make its way, it can't go in any other direction. Undreamed of possibilities are being realized toward the Pacific. Volcanic emanations for hot air radiators; the icy currents from glacial caves turned to residential use, and piped to the four points of the compass.

None of the obsolete investments of congested territories to be written off. The latest of everything and the best. Come on out and take your pick of the groundfloor chances.

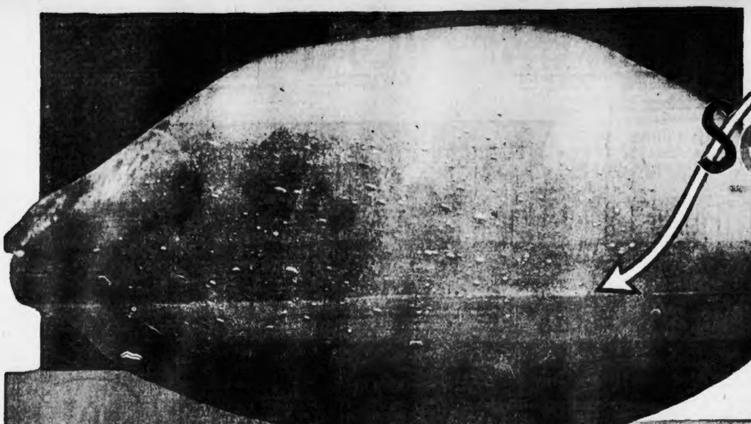
Is Cleopatra's Secret Elixir of Beauty Sealed in This Glass Egg?



A Remarkable "Close-Up" of the Actual "Mystery-Egg," Exhumed in Arabia, Showing Through Its Opaque Side the Liquid Thought to Have Been Used as a Beauty Elixir by Cleopatra. (Exact Size.)

Why Science Thinks That the Curious Compound, Buried at Ba'albek, Was Used by Egypt's Queen to Brighten Her Beauty, Whose Secrets Our Women Are Burning to Learn

HAS Cleopatra's secret elixir of beauty, which, says legend, kept burning brilliantly the flame of her facial splendor till her death, at thirty-eight, been found after 2,000 years?

Is the priceless distillation which made her the envied and hated of other queens still intact, and perhaps still potent enough to repair the sagging muscles and restore the faded bloom of a modern woman's cheeks?

Does the egg-shaped glass globe, which an antiquarian dug from the ruins of Ba'albek or Heliopolis, the ancient Greek "City of the Sun," in Arabia, contain the lotion?

If so, why does not the director general of the Cairo Museum pierce the surface, drain the contents and solve the breathless mystery?

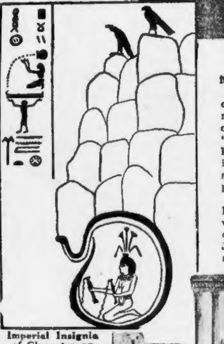
These are questions which Egyptologists are hotly firing at one another and which, until their solution, must constitute one of the most baffling and tantalizing problems of the ages!

It was considered highly significant by scientists the world over that the "mystery-egg" should have been unearthed at Ba'albek, for Ba'albek, please remember, was located precisely in that part of Arabia over which Cleopatra, the "Serpent of the Nile," and the Romans fought bitterly during the century before Christ.

When the excavator lifted the queerly shaped, glittering thing up to the light, peered at it, shook it and wondered what on earth was inside, little did he dream that he was perhaps agitating the hidden mixture which gave Cleopatra such matchless beauty that the enraptured Antony divorced his wife and fled back to the Nile; which cast such a spell of romance over her features that Julius Caesar lost his cool head and his stony heart to her, and which, even in her death throes, lent Egypt's queen so lasting a glamor that "imperially her face did mock the tomb."

Historians say that Potentates in bygone days had their art treasures, clothing and jewels buried with them. The most cultured pre-Christian civilizations believed that death was only a sleep and that they would awake, organically intact. But this is the first time, if the legend of the "egg" be true, that a monarch could not bear to be separated from the phial containing her beauty elixir.

The latter is now in the possession of M. Maspero, in charge of the Cairo Museum, to whom it was sent after workmen had exhumed it from a regal casket, wrapped in the tattered vestiges of rich fabrics and surrounded with other evidences that it had been regarded as a toilette article of priceless value.



Imperial Insignia of Cleopatra on the Casket Containing the "Mystery-Egg." The "Vulture of the South" and the "Hawk of the North" Are Shown Perched on Rocky Summits. Below, within a Serpent's Coil Crouches the Egyptian Goddess, Hapi.

In a large picture at the top of this page is reproduced the globe itself. As you can see, it is not especially artistic in workmanship, being, indeed, somewhat uncouth in general scheme. But—the contents! Think of what they may mean to modern womanhood! No wonder that a widespread cry arose, upon the first announcement of the casket's discovery—"Open it. Open it! Give us the secret."

But that was where the mulishness of one man failed to make the vote unanimous. Maspero declined to do anything of the sort. He refused to shatter the "egg," which had no aperture of any kind, the liquid evidently having been put inside at the very time the globe was sealed by the glass-blower, who probably poured it in through his slender tube.

Just how exasperating this refusal of Maspero's was to the thousands of women waiting to hear of a beauty treatment so old that it was new, may be imagined. Just how seriously antiquarians and archaeologists took the refusal may be estimated from the actions of two American institutions.

Harvard University and the Peabody Institute offered the, museum director $20,000 if he would just let them pierce a tiny, tiny hole in the egg with an electric needle and withdraw a few drops for analysis.

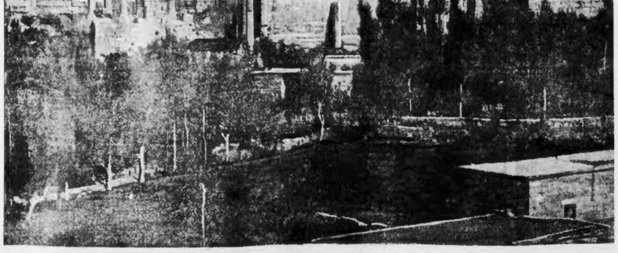
But to these tempting offers, the politely stubborn Maspero said only: "No!"

So, while the modern world of woman fumes at Maspero's hesitancy, and science is wondering just what is inside the curious globe, the latter rests in a locked and guarded case at the Cairo Museum. But you cannot choke off speculation merely by refusing to permit experiments.

And is it any wonder that guesswork has run rife over the "mystery egg" and its contents? Unfortunately, relatively little is known about Cleopatra's cosmetics and "youth-restorers," though these are said by historians to have been plentiful and elaborate. In "Caesar and Cleopatra," Bernard Shaw gives her cure for baldness. Perhaps by 2023, the reigning dramatist of that period will be able to incorporate into a play the ingredients of the now hidden beauty elixir!

Surmise as to these ingredients is now fascinating beauty specialists and perfume compounders. For nothing that a queen of Egypt touched would have been permitted to remain unscented. The renowned Nefertiti, greatest court beauty of the Pharoah dynasty, who owned the mystic formula for the elixir and who handed it down to Cleopatra, the last queen of Egypt, was celebrated for her love of dainty essences and odorous compounds of flower petals and gum-resins.

Extract of vanilla (highly esteemed), musk, civet, attar of rose and violet—these are some of the perfumes, strong and delicate, which may be lingering, like imprisoned Egyptian ghosts, within the "egg." When it is firmly opened, according to the Cairo Journal, so perfectly has the liquid been sealed up, the odors will steal out unimpaired, enchanting the nostrils of those nearby.



View of the Ruins of Ba'albek, Where the Sealed Glass Globe, Filled with the Elixir, Was Found.

But Cleopatra was famed not alone for her fastidiousness at the toilette table. She was probably the most powerful charmer of the ancient world. The last queen of the Ptolemies, she reigned at Alexandria from 69 B. C. to 30 B. C. Her two most illustrious admirers were Caesar and Antony, the latter actually killing himself when he got a false report of her death.

At first an ally of Rome, which restored her to her throne after she had been disrowned, she later engaged in a disastrous war with the Latins and slew herself to avoid being carried off in chains and exhibited as a captive.

Now enters one of the most interesting coincidences of the finding of the "mystery egg." If you recall your Shakespeare vividly enough, you will hear with a thrill that the casket containing the globe is adorned with regal symbols, among them a coiled asp. In "Antony and Cleopatra," it is this snake which the Queen uses to commit suicide. If that legend be true, what a remarkable link between the "mystery egg" and its royal owner! For serpents were among the imperial emblems of the Ptolemies, Cleopatra's "house."

At this point, you may interpose skeptically that she died at Alexandria. Quite true, but there is every possibility, says history, that she was not buried there. Instead, Ba'albek or Heliopolis, is considered her probable last resting-place.

Heliopolis, as has been said, was the ancient Greek "City of the Sun," and Cleopatra, after all, was of pure Greek blood. Nothing could have been more natural than to remove the body of a dead monarch, with her most precious possessions, to that spot where her own gods could watch over her even beyond the grave.

In ancient days, to be buried without one's most intimate treasures was considered a piece of bad form approaching criminality. Therefore, argue modern scientists, Cleopatra, who was distinctly feminine in all she did, would almost rather have been entombed alive than enter her sepulchre without her priceless lotion. The discovery of the glass globe seems to lend probability to their theory.

And this theory served to reinforce the belief mentioned above: that those who died were destined to awake in another world, their features unchanged, resuming their existence where it had been broken off. Evidently Cleopatra was one of them and expected to use her phial of perfumed essences later.

These are a few of the reasons why science awaits, with indrawn breath and dilated eye, the eventful opening of the "mystery egg," one of the most extraordinary themes for romantic and cultural speculation which the archaeologist's spade has ever brought to light.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A LONDON woman was fined five dollars the other day for kissing a horse. Some pedestrian saw her and phoned to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

THE woman didn't happen to be beautiful, otherwise the horse would probably have told the cops to mind their own business.

IT'S no crime to kiss a horse, but with so many hansom cabs in London in wouldn't be long before this dame would have traffic blocked.

WE think nothing of seeing a man with a cat in his arms, but we'd be surprised if we discovered him holding a cow on his lap.

A COW is just as lovable as a cat, only a cow can't catch mice.

YOU could leave a cow in your living room all day and feel sure that the canaries would still be there when you got back.

IF this London woman loves to kiss horses she ought to come over to this country and go to Texas where she could have a whole ranch to herself.

SHE'D find more excitement in kissing a wild horse than she would in kissing a tame one.

IF this London horse knew a lawyer, he'd probably have this dame arrested for breach of promise.

BUT the woman's attorney would no doubt be able to settle it out of court by paying two bushels of oats and a bale of hay.

WHILE the police arrested this woman, she didn't commit any crime, but they thought it wise to tell her that she couldn't walk along the street and hail a "cabby" every time she felt like kissing his horse.

TO KEEP AHEAD OF YOUR WORK, GET EACH JOB DONE ON TIME.

Isn't putting off to another time one of your greatest faults?

In your office you may leave work unfinished, depending on the next day to clean it up.

Next day additional work comes to you, or you may be delayed, and what gets ahead of you today is added to what you neglected to do yesterday.

The day after, you begin a mad rush to catch up.

Errors creep in, and in your haste you do not keep up to the usual high standard of work which you ought to maintain.

If you are an employe you are criticized and become angry, perhaps; at least you are worried and things seem to keep right on going wrong.

All this trouble and embarassment might have been saved you if you had spent a few minutes at the right time, getting each job done on time.
